

Will Rush Program For Street Building Here Under New Works Bill

Mayor Heiselman Directs City Engineer and Superintendent To Speed Program So As to be Ready When Bill Is Effective.

COLONIAL SUBWAY

New York Central To Allow City To Use It As An Emergency By-Pass.

Mayor C. J. Heiselman informed the Board of Public Works on Monday evening that he was anxious to have the proposed street building program ready for submission to the state authorities as soon as the provisions of the new federal five billion dollar works bill becomes effective. Under the provisions of this bill the streets that are accepted as projects in Kingston will be built by private contractors who, by the bill's provisions, must employ the men on the relief rolls of the city. There are some 30 or more streets listed on the proposed street building program that has been tentatively drafted by the board.

City Engineer Henry Darrow and Superintendent James Norton stated that they would have plans drawn and ready for submission on several streets before the close of this week. They were instructed that if they found it necessary to employ additional engineering help to do so for as soon as the federal works plan is operative Mayor Heiselman said he wanted to be in a position to submit plans for the building of the streets here in such form that a contractor would be able to understand just the type of street which was to be built and the approximate cost of construction.

The Colonial Subway

Mayor Heiselman also called the board's attention to the fact that the New York Central Railroad authorities had informed him that the railroad would grant the city the right to use the old Colonial Subway under the railroad tracks. This subway extends from Dedrick street to Thomas street under the West Shore railroad. The subway has not been used since the trolley cars were replaced by the present bus lines.

The railroad had, informed him, the mayor said, that their local attorney was drafting the necessary papers that the city must sign. The mayor said as soon as he received the papers he would submit the matter to the entire board for action.

It was planned in case the city did use the subway that it would be used for emergency purposes only, and for only the police cars and the fire department trucks would use it. If the fire apparatus was called out and was blocked at the West Shore crossing on Broadway, then it would be possible to drive through the subway.

Paint and Spreader

The board also authorized the purchase of a paint spreader to be used in painting traffic lines on the street pavements. It was stated that last season the city's spreader had been struck by an automobile and wrecked. The hit and run driver made good his escape and his identity was not learned. The board also authorized the purchase of white traffic paint to be used on the streets. It is also planned to use yellow traffic paint in painting the traffic lines near the city schools.

"Dangerous Building"

At a former meeting of the board it had been reported that the brick building at 1415 East Union street owned by Elise J. Wade was in a dangerous condition, and that it should either be made safe or torn down.

Last night a resolution drafted by Corporation Counsel Matthew V. Cahill directing the owner to make repairs or demolish the building, was unanimously adopted by the board.

Drainage in Parks

Plans for draining Block Park and Hasbrouck Park are to be prepared; the work to be done as an E.R.R. project.

Pay for Laterals

The board also discussed at length what price it should charge householders to connect with laterals to the new sewer that has been constructed as a work relief project in the city. The cost of building the sewer and laterals had been borne by the state and federal government paying 75 per cent of the construction cost and the city 25 per cent.

The board decided that $10 would be a fair price and this money would be turned back to the E.R.R. to be used in relief work. This $10 will be charged whenever a householder hooked onto the lateral, and this price applies only to laterals laid by the E.R.R.

No Street Sweeper

The question of purchasing a street sweeper at this time was tabled. Mayor Heiselman said that while undoubtedly the purchase of a sweeper would be the city money, it would not be wise to make such a purchase until such a time as the many unemployed men in the city had work. Sweeping the streets by hand as in the past would give work to a number of men this summer.

70-Mile Northeast Piles 4-Foot Waves Along Atlantic Coast

(By The Associated Press)

The worst nor'easter in many years raged along the North Atlantic seaboard today. Inland, rampant rivers brought the sporadic threat of heavy flood damage.

With tumultuous seas running in the North Atlantic, the British freighter Badagry, wallowing two hundred miles east of St. John's, N. F., sent out a SOS.

"Holding filling rapidly," the message said. Several ships were proceeding to her aid.

Long Island and the Jersey coast were bearing the brunt of the 70-mile nor'easter. At Jones Beach and Fire Island, favorite beaches of New Yorkers, waves 40 feet high rolled ashore. Coast Guardsmen worked all night "shoring up" summer cottages threatened with inundation by the sea.

Coast Guardsmen said the storm was the worst in many years.

Southward, along the Jersey coast, the waves battered famous boardwalks, flooded streets of seaside resorts and lashed away with undiminished fury throughout the night and into the day.

A launch, with four men aboard, was reported adrift in Long Island Sound, helpless. Coast Guardsmen from New London, Conn., and Staten Island put out in the storm in search.

In California, the heavy rains have forced rivers to flood stages. Currently, more than a dozen persons have lost their lives as a result of the high waters.

In the wake of a tornado's havoc, floods threatened in parts of Mississippi and Louisiana. In southwestern Kentucky, the Green and Pond rivers poured over their banks. A hundred or so families were left homeless.

Music and Art Help Benedictine Ball To Be Held Easter Monday

Mrs. J. Paul Purcell, who is the chairman of the Music for the Benedictine Easter Ball, has arranged for our two fine Kingston orchestras—the Paul Zucca Orchestra and the John Ernie Orchestra—for the ball, which will assure those who enjoy dancing of music for their dancing that cannot be excelled.

Mrs. Frank J. Egan and Mrs. Charles J. Mullen, the Publicity Committee have added a unique art feature to their well-planned scheme of publicity for the big ball which will mean added necessary funds with which to carry on the charitable work of this splendid hospital.

Two of the boarding students of the Academy of St. Ursula, Miss Joan Wilson, aged 13, and Miss Marie Keenan, aged 13, both from New York City, have painted six large, clever and artistic posters advertising the ball.

One shows a recovering hospital patient, sitting up in bed and attended by a hospital nurse. All of the posters bear the caption, "Attend the Annual Benedictine Ball, April 22, 1935."

Another depicts an Easter Bunnies' Ball, with the orchestral leader, bunnies dancing and others enjoying refreshments, and a bird broadcasting an Easter song.

A third presents a large basket of Easter flowers tied with a big blue bow.

A gay rabbit and a basket of colored Easter eggs is the picture painted on one.

Still another is quite different in that the lettering is all in the center and there is a border of spring blossoms.

The sixth poster shows a yellow bunny emerging from a large Easter egg, with narcissus blossoms in the foreground.

Maintained Position Newark, N. J., April 9 (AP)—Eugene E. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, told stockholders today at their 50th annual meeting that the concern, which lost $20,000,000 in 1932, and $9,000,000 in 1933, made a profit of about $3,000,000 in 1934. In January, 1932, he said, the corporation had in cash and government securities $50,275,000. In January, 1935, this figure was $30,875,000. "We have more than maintained our cash position during the depression years," Grace said.

Stock Meeting Chilled Chicago, April 9 (AP)—With one exception, police today clung to their belief that Richard Max Perrot, 42 years old, who disappeared last Tuesday, is still alive, and prepared their search for a man they believe to be holding the child captive.

Washington, April 9 (AP)—Secretary Ickes said today a new decentralized public works administration would be created in the states to speed new projects and coordinate them with other parts of the $4,000,000,000 work program.

His statement at a press conference conformed with other official assurances that greater "home rule" will be sought to accelerate spending the work fund and transferring 3,500,000 jobs from direct to work relief.

Ickes said he plans to set up legal, financial and engineering divisions "in miniature" in the states "so they can pass on the projects and send them in here."

He added that the new organization, which he said could be set up "immediately," would cooperate with state planning councils in the entire program.

Ickes said that "so far as possible labor on projects ought to come from relief rolls."

Despite an informal ruling by Comptroller General McCall's office that purchase of sub-marginal land and subsistence homesteads were not authorized by the work act, Ickes said it was his "own opinion" that the act was broad enough to cover subsistence homesteads.

Roosevelt to New York

After signing the bill into law late yesterday while returning from a fishing trip off the Florida coast, Mr. Roosevelt sped on to New York to attend the funeral today of his cousin, Warren Delano Robbins, the American minister to Canada.

Government officials noted that a statement issued aboard his train as he signed the job-making measure contained these sentences:

"It should be noted that the long delay in the Senate has made necessary the transfer of many millions of dollars previously allocated to highly useful, permanent projects to immediate emergency relief work. This money came from the recovery act appropriation of 1933."

"Many of the projects which have been cancelled because of this cannot now be continued under the terms of the new law."

The President did not go into detail regarding the projects which would have to be abandoned. He said some of the last-minute amendments to the bill presented "a number of new questions" but that interested departments and agencies had recommended that he approve the measure.

Important Roles

The word in administration circles, meanwhile, asserted that state and community officials will have important roles in the program which aims at providing jobs for 3,500,000 persons now on relief. Procedure somewhat similar to that employed in CWA's billion-dollar drive against unemployment a year ago was outlined at a conference of regional relief engineers which assembled here yesterday.

Under the CWA, it was recalled, proposals for work projects were examined by local relief councils, forwarded to state relief administrators for approval and in most cases brought to the attention of Washington headquarters only after they were under way.

Immediately after affixing his signature to the works bill yesterday, the President directed that $125,000,000 of the fund be made available to the relief administration, whose treasury was nearly empty, and that $30,000,000 be turned over at once to carry on the Civilian Conservation Corps.

Further moves, including appointment of a board to administer the entire fund, were left for announcement after his return to the capital. He planned to leave New York immediately after the funeral of Mr. Robbins today.

HOOVER AND SMITH KNOW ONE ANOTHER BETTER TODAY

New York, April 9 (AP)—Herbert Clark Hoover of Palo Alto, Calif., and Alfred Emanuel Smith of New York, were better acquainted today.

Responding to invitations of the citizens' appeal for the Salvation Army, the former President and his 1928 opponent for the Presidency, spoke from the same platform last night.

On behalf of the Army's campaign for $500,000 to balance its $450,000 budget for the next fiscal year, the two men emphasized the need for continued support of private charity despite government relief.

Before the meeting they were guests of honor at a dinner. Walking side by side, they led the grand march of patrons and patronesses and chatted good-naturedly while taking their place.

Mr. Hoover made no mention of the 1928 campaign but Mr. Smith said:

"Close to seven years ago President Hoover and I were talking at each other from various meeting places throughout the United States. Tonight we are talking at you, but we are talking in the interest of the Salvation Army drive."

Salvation Army Stone House Burns, Sellers Lose Personal Effects

Fire Is Discovered Shortly After Midnight In Stone House Used As An Office, Storage Rooms and Meeting Rooms.

OLD LANDMARK

S. A. Headquarters For Many Years and One of the Oldest Houses in Kingston.

Fire discovered shortly after midnight by Joseph Weber of Howland avenue, caused some damage to the old stone house at Green and North Front streets owned by the Salvation Army and used as an office, storage rooms and meeting rooms. This damage is covered by insurance, but Adjutant Fred Seller, in charge of local operations of the army, suffered a much larger personal loss through the destruction of a vast amount of personal property which was stored in the room in which the fire originated. Whether his loss is covered by insurance is not known as the insurance is in the form of a blanket policy on the several properties which comprise the plant of the Salvation Army here.

The fire was discovered in a small room at the northwest corner of the story and a half stone building and directly over Adjutant Seller's office. At the time the fire was discovered it had gained considerable headway and the cause of the fire is difficult to ascertain.

Coal Fire Burning

In the room where the fire started was a coal fire which had been banked for the night but apparently the fire did not start from the stove as that portion of the room is not badly burned. A huge chimney to which is connected two fireplaces on the main floor also run through this room, but an inspection failed to reveal any damaged condition in the chimney. This is the second fire to take place in the building within a few months. Recently a fire was discovered in an adjoining room and following that fire the electrical wiring was ordered renewed.

All New Wiring

Since the first of the year the electrical wiring had all been renewed and inspected and whether some defect in the wires may have started the fire last evening is not known. A meeting was held during the evening in the building and when the lights were turned on in the kitchen a member of the group reported the lights had flickered and acted in an unusual manner.

While the damage by fire was confined to the small room in which it apparently originated, there was some damage to the attic floor by smoke and water and the office of Adjutant Seller directly under the place where the fire started was flooded with water. However, this morning he reported that all of his records had been saved although somewhat damaged by water.

An alarm was sent in from box 231 shortly after midnight and it was two hours before the fire was out. Members of Willywick and Excelsior Hose Companies responded and two streams were laid.

Damage Confined

All of the damage was confined to the stone house portion of the plant and there was no damage to the adjoining brick additions which have been added to the old stone premises.

In the room where the fire started were stored trunks and chests of personal belongings of Mr. and Mrs. Seller. Practically all of their summer clothing was in storage there together with boxes and trunks of personal property now in use. Children's toys, including an electric train, were destroyed or damaged. All of the musical instruments and music of Mr. Seller were stored in the room and were destroyed. His loss was heavy and whether the policy under which the Army belongings were insured covers his personal property he was unable to state this morning.

The relief groceries of the Army stored in the building were damaged or destroyed. Several cases of canned goods may be usable but open or bulk materials were destroyed.

With the determination to carry on which is characteristic of the Salvation Army, Adjutant Seller salvaged equipment this morning and moved his office across the hall to an adjoining room which had been

Adolph S. Ochs, Famous Publisher of N.Y. Times, Died Monday in South

Cerebral Hemorrhage Fatal to Journalistic Genius, 77, Who Made History in Revitalizing Stricken Metropolitan Paper.

"PRINTER'S DEVIL"

Death Came in Chattanooga Where Mr. Ochs Began His Career With Down-at-Heels Paper.

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 9 (AP)—Services for Adolph Ochs, publisher of The New York Times, will be held here tomorrow in the Julius and Bertha Ochs Memorial Temple which the publisher erected in honor of his parents. The funeral will be in New York on Friday.

Mr. Ochs died of a cerebral hemorrhage yesterday at the age of 77.

The New York funeral Friday will be conducted from Temple Emanuel, Fifth avenue at 65th street, at 10:30 a. m., and burial will be at Mount Hope, N. Y.

Rabbi Abraham Feinstein and the Rev. Dr. T. S. McCallie, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church of Chattanooga, will officiate in the services here which will be held at 9:30 a. m., tomorrow. The body will be taken to New York on the 11 a. m. train.

The journey his body will take in death will be the same Mr. Ochs took when, as a young man who had built the Chattanooga Times into one of the south's leading newspapers, he set out to the task of rebuilding the New York Times.

In this larger work, he snatched the New York newspaper from financial disaster and, in its direction, won acclaim as a genius of American journalism.

Stricken at Luncheon

Mr. Ochs was stricken as he sat at luncheon with a group of friends and relatives. He lost consciousness and was taken to a sanitarium where four hours later he died without regaining consciousness.

When Mr. Ochs took the helm of The New York Times it had passed through the financial straits of 1893 and had come out a crippled concern. He reorganized it and instituted a new plan of financing.

When he assumed control The Times had about 100 employees, a circulation of less than 20,000 daily and gross annual receipts of approximately $500,000.

In 1928, the employees numbered in excess of 3,200, daily circulation exceeded 400,000 and Sunday sales 700,000. Annual receipts exceeded $25,000,000. In 1934 the week-day circulation averaged 466,470, and Sunday 716,135.

Mr. Ochs gave much of his time and energy to the building up of The Associated Press. He had been active as a director and member of the executive committee since the formation of the present world-wide organization in 1900 and had served on two occasions as its treasurer.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Effie Wise Ochs, and one daughter, Mrs. Arthur Hays Sulzberger, both of New York.

"All the News"

The ideals which Adolph S. Ochs deemed essential in the making of a newspaper might be summed up in the slogan of the New York Times—"All the news that's fit to print."

He applied that principle to the advertising as well as to the editorial columns and by adhering tenaciously to it built up two newspapers, the New York Times and the Chattanooga Times, which became monuments to his genius as a newspaper publisher and business executive.

His rehabilitation of the New York Times, eventually making it one of the greatest newspapers of the world, was the outstanding achievement in Mr. Ochs' career of more than half a century as a publisher. It was, however, merely a repetition on a larger scale of what he had accomplished with the Chattanooga Times.

Manifesting a peculiar liking for the print shop and printer's ink as a boy, they proved a greater attraction to him than his studies and he became a carrier boy, then a printer's "devil," learned the "case" and developed into a competent printer.

Mr. Ochs was only 24 years old when he took his first step at publishing. In 1878 he put out a Chattanooga city directory which proved a financial success. With the capital thus acquired and backed only by his tremendous energy and confidence in his own ability, he entered the field as a newspaper publisher by purchasing a half interest in the Chattanooga Times. The price was $17,500, on which he paid $250 in cash.

Two years later he bought the other half interest, but was obliged to pay $2,500 for it, so rapidly had the journal developed in circulation, influence and business.

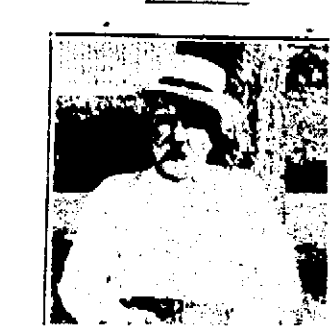

To Times in 1896

When Mr. Ochs went to the New York Times in 1896, the journal was described by one observer as "the most picturesque old ruin among the newspapers in America." Made great and powerful through the ability of Henry J. Raymond and George Jones, the Times had passed into other hands and was in its way to slow extinction.

Once again the Ochs genius, ability and energy were put to work in the problem.

Germany's Demands Call For Land, Arms and Air Equality, Reports Simon

Was 80 Years Young And Guest of Honor

WILLIAM A. FLANAGAN

A birthday party in honor of the 80th birthday of William A. Flanagan of 207 Main street was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dugan of 8802 107th street, Richmond Hill, New York city, on April 7. After an informal reception at which the guest of honor was cordially felicitated by his relatives and friends a delicious turkey dinner was served. Following the dinner Joseph Dugan, Jr., a grandnephew, presented Daniel B. Joseph, a nephew, as toastmaster. Mr. Joseph called upon members of each of the families of relatives and friends who congratulated the guest of honor and reviewed many happy memories of by-gone days. If the well wishes for health, happiness and longevity materialize Mr. Flanagan will celebrate many more happy birthdays. During the evening vocal solos were rendered by Joseph Dugan, Sr., and James Green. John Doyle favored with several violin selections. Four generations of the Flanagan family were represented. The guest of honor and his only living sister, Mrs. Catherine Joseph, of High Falls, N. Y.; his daughter, Isabel, and his son, E. Frank, as well as many nieces and nephews; his grandsons, Albert Flanagan, three granddaughters and three grandnephews; his great-grandchildren, Gertrude Dugan. The following relatives were present: Mrs. Catherine Joseph, High Falls, N. Y.; Mrs. James P. Tossing, Miss Margaret Mulvihill, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Flanagan, Saugerties, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dugan, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dugan, Jr., Joseph Flanagan, Baby Gertrude Dugan, Richmond Hill, New York city; Miss Mary Flanagan, New York city; Miss Margaret Flanagan, Miss Martha Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Flanagan, William E. Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Clark, Miss Jeanette R. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer S. Joseph, Miss Genevieve L. Joseph, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Daniel B. Joseph, New York city; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Green, Nicholas Green, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hines, Edward Rock, Miss Kate Murray, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mrs. Sara McKee Riley, Miss Alice Riley, Miss Gertrude Riley, West New York, N. J.; John Doyle, Brooklyn; E. Frank Flanagan, Miss Isabel Flanagan, Albert C. Flanagan, Miss Betty Niles, Kingston.

The foreign secretary summarized the German views as follows—An eastern security pact involving mutual assistance was opposed and Hitler refused to sign such an agreement; Hitler said he was not prepared to enter a pact of mutual assistance between Russia and Germany; on the other hand, Germany favored a non-aggression pact between the powers interested in European questions together with provisions for consultation if aggression occurred.

He said Hitler did not want the inclusion of Lithuania in any pact of non-aggression under the present conditions. He stated that the Germans also suggested that if hostilities should start between any two contracting powers when a pact of consultation and non-aggression was in force, the other contracting powers should endeavor not to support the aggressor in any way.

Tuberculin Tests Made In Central and Rural Schools of Highland

During the past week the members of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital staff, aided assisted by the town of Lloyd health nurse, Mrs. Marion Lavelle, R. N., have been performing the tuberculin test in the central and rural schools of Highland.

They were very pleasantly surprised to find that the number of consents obtained for the test was nearly 75 per cent of the registration. This is the highest mark reached so far in Ulster county, and compares very favorably with that of larger areas of the United States, where the test has been used for years. Out of 925 pupils registered, the parents of 682 gave their consent for the test. The total of 142, or 15 per cent, showed a positive reaction, and this may be considered a low percentage. As is known, a more positive reaction does not indicate active disease, but only that the reactor has been or is in contact with an open case of tuberculosis, and therefore all the efforts are directed toward the discovery of the source of infection. All the positive reactors and the adult patients of the grade school pupils will now be examined at the hospital in the next few weeks and undoubtedly the people of Highland will take advantage of the examination with the same good will with which they gave the consent for the test. Their enthusiastic response not only proves the effectiveness of the tuberculin campaign in Ulster county, but also testifies to Highland's interest in public health and to its commendable spirit of cooperation.

The results of the survey in Ulster county have been very encouraging on a far and some of its features are being imitated elsewhere in the state. The fact that with this examination the discovery of each case of tuberculosis costs less than $10, as compared to $50 or more spent in other surveys, has been highly gratified by the state department of education, by the central medical officers, by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and by other agencies interested in the problem.

Poland—Joseph Beck, foreign minister of Poland, explained to Captain Egan, said Sir John, that Poland already had established "tranquil relations on two frontiers and the question Poland was bound to ask herself was whether any new proposal would improve or trouble the good atmosphere established by these two agreements.

The situation was also briefly reviewed at Praha, Czechoslovakia, said Sir John.

Navy 35 Per Cent the Size of Great Britain's Included in the First Official and Complete Survey

NON-AGGRESSION

Proposes a Non-Aggression Instead of a Mutual Assistance Pact In Eastern Europe.

By ALBERT W. WILSON

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press) London, April 9.—Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, told the House of Commons today that Germany demands land, arms, and air equality, a navy 35 per cent the size of Great Britain's, proposes a non-aggression instead of a mutual assistance pact in eastern Europe, and would be willing to discuss non-interference in Austria if a suitable plan is suggested.

Sir John's statement was the first official and complete summary of what he and Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, learned on their recent trip to Berlin and the latter's subsequent journey to Moscow, Warsaw, and Praha.

Sir John referred to the great difficulties facing the British in trying to bring Reichsfuehrer Hitler around to the London government's views and emphasized the wide divergences between Hitler's and the British proposals.

He told the House: "At the end of the Berlin interview, I expressed disappointment at the difficulties disclosed in the way of an agreement."

The foreign secretary declined to give the house any outline of what the British policy would be at the forthcoming conference in Stresa, with France and Italy, but he promised that the British delegation would not bind the nation to definite commitments there until after consultation with Parliament.

Diplomatic quarters, however, said they were informed that Great Britain would offer to commit herself actively to participation in a Pan-European mutual assistance pact if France and Italy will accept the British proposals. An atmosphere of optimism concerning the outcome of the Stresa conference was apparent.

Demanded Complete Figures

Sir John spoke in a house where only a few minutes earlier members had demanded of Sir Philip Sassoon, under-secretary of state for air, that the government produce complete figures on Germany's and Great Britain's comparative military air strength so that Parliament would know the real situation before beginning its debate on armaments.

The air ministry official said that Reichsfuehrer Hitler had stated Germany's air strength was as large as Great Britain's but that it was very difficult to obtain precise and accurate figures in Berlin and that he believed "the Royal Air Force still has a margin of superiority over the German air force."

The foreign secretary summarized the German views as follows—An eastern security pact involving mutual assistance was opposed and Hitler refused to sign such an agreement; Hitler said he was not prepared to enter a pact of mutual assistance between Russia and Germany; on the other hand, Germany favored a non-aggression pact between the powers interested in European questions together with provisions for consultation if aggression occurred.

He said Hitler did not want the inclusion of Lithuania in any pact of non-aggression under the present conditions. He stated that the Germans also suggested that if hostilities should start between any two contracting powers when a pact of consultation and non-aggression was in force, the other contracting powers should endeavor not to support the aggressor in any way.

Difficult To Identify Aggressor Sir John said Hitler dwelt on the difficulty of identifying an aggressor. He said the Reichsfuehrer opposed other parties under his suggested pact entering an agreement among themselves for mutual assistance, because he considers that dangerous and objectionable as tending to create special interests within the wider system.

Russia—Sir John said Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal, had learned that the Soviets consider the present international situation more than ever made it necessary "to endeavor to promote the building of a security system for Europe as contemplated by the Anglo-French committee of London and the principles of the League of Nations."

He said the Soviets viewed the eastern part as not aimed at the encirclement of any state and as providing equal security for all participants, likewise as believing that the participation of Germany and Poland in the pact would be the best solution to the eastern European problem.

Poland—Joseph Beck, foreign minister of Poland, explained to Captain Egan, said Sir John, that Poland already had established "tranquil relations on two frontiers and the question Poland was bound to ask herself was whether any new proposal would improve or trouble the good atmosphere established by these two agreements.

The situation was also briefly reviewed at Praha, Czechoslovakia, said Sir John.

Little Carla Brelos, daughter of Mrs. Caroline Brelos, is ill at her home with bronchial pneumonia.

Miss Celia Jacobowitz has returned from a two months' vacation spent in Florida.

Mrs. Norman Young of Bridgeport, Conn., arrived here Wednesday evening, having been summoned here by the death of her sister, Mrs. E. D. Ter Bush.

The Major Dwight Divine Chapter, Daughters of the Union, 1861-1865, held a luncheon at the Wayside Inn on Saturday. Installation of officers and a program followed the luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Silverman, Max Silverman and two sons, Sidney and Myron Silverman, motored to Branchville, N. J., on Sunday to visit Isaac Silverman and family.

MARGARET OBERKIRCH HUME AWARDED ALIMONY BY COURT.

Mrs. Margaret Hume, formerly Miss Margaret Oberkirch of Kingston, who has filed a separation action against her husband, Quintus Hume, of Ossining, was granted alimony of $7.50 per week and counsel fees of $75 April 5 by Supreme Court Justice George H. Taylor, Jr.

Mrs. Oberkirch, mother of Mrs. Hume, and her sister, Mrs. Hattie Smythe, and her brother, Martin Oberkirch, reside in Kingston.

In setting the amount of the fees and alimony, Justice Taylor said that "the defendant is apparently unemployed at present and I have taken that unfortunate circumstance into consideration."

"No intimation as to the merits of the regrettable controversy is made by me," Justice Taylor stated. "In disposing of plaintiff's motion for alimony and counsel fee, I merely determine upon the voluminous moving and opposing affidavits that the plaintiff's showing is sufficient to warrant a proper award in each phase."

The suit will be filed in the May term of the supreme court, it was said by attorneys, but it may not be reached for a year or even two years due to the congestion of the calendar.

In the original affidavit, filed last month, charges and counter-charges of "cruelty," "desertion" and other marital delinquencies were made against each other by both parties.

Spending Most of Day

Tonawanda, N. Y.—Albert Minter, 65-year-old mechanic, had better take it easy next time he rides his bicycle. He may not find the judge so lenient.

Minter was up before Judge Gordon T. Hackitt on a charge of speeding—on his bicycle.

The judge was incredulous, but that was the charge nevertheless. "Well, don't let it happen again," he said. "Discharged."

Work For Nothing

Charleston, W. Va.—It took four automobiles to get State Trooper J. M. N. Johnson over the snow-covered mountains—to no purpose.

"You are due in Charleston at once for a hearing," came the order into the Mineral county hills.

Johnson got into his car and with three others behind him pushed through 18 inches of snow to the bottom lands.

With Their Master

Minneapolis, Minn.—Patsy and Snooks died, too, so the last wish of Evan A. Hart, 54, went unfulfilled.

Found Monday night beside the body of Hart, asphyxiated from an open gas stove jet, with a note asking some "good Samaritan" to care for the two buildings.

When firemen answered a reported explosion, they discovered Patsy lying beside Hart and Snooks under the stove.

Hart left $5. for payment of gas and electric bills.

Events Around The Empire State

Binghamton, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—The "biggest and wettest" snowflakes Weather Meteorologist Thomas E. Reed of this city has seen in 22 years of meteorology work fell on Binghamton yesterday.

"I have seen snowstorms that have been world-beaters," Reed said, "these were the biggest and wettest I've seen in a long, long time." Some of the flakes were estimated at three and one-half inches in diameter.

Reed attributed the size to unusual calmness of atmosphere.

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—High rank was held by two officers in the New York National Guard today and a third made plans to be retired next fall.

Adjutant-General Walter G. Robinson announced the promotion of Lieut. Col. Ames T. Brown, Albany, executive officer of the 71st Infantry, New York city, to colonel, and the elevation of Lieut. Col. George F. Terry, New York city, to executive officer of the 71st Infantry.

Brig. General William R. Pooley, commanding officer of the 37th Brigade, will retire from service October 5, at the age of 64.

Hudson Falls, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—A still, described by raiding federal officers as the largest found in the state since repeal of the 18th Amendment, was guarded today after it was uncovered in a barn near Big Bay, yesterday.

Federal officers captured one man, and 60,000 gallons of mash and 2,000 gallons of alcohol were confiscated. The man, who gave his name as Michael Falarico of Saratoga Springs, was arraigned before United States Commissioner David S. Fisk and held in $1,000 bail for a hearing Friday.

ST. REMY

St. Remy, April 8.—The ladies will serve an Easter supper April 17 in the basement of the church.

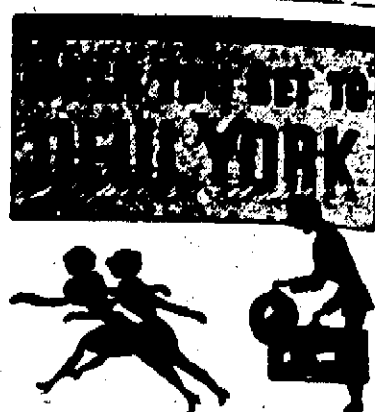

The Ellsworth family motored to Albany and return on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. George Moir and son, George, of Stamford, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Lorenzo Terpening and family. Mrs. Terpening accompanied them home for a few weeks' visit.

Mrs. Serena Fraer visited friends in New Paltz on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Freer of New Salem received a number of visitors on Sunday, their golden wedding anniversary.

On Monday, April 1, the first business meeting of the St. Remy Intermediate Christian Endeavor was held at the church. The following officers were elected: President, Isabel Frost; vice president, Violet Schmitt; secretary, Ella Hoffman; treasurer, Paul Pekin. Heads of committee chosen were Dorothy Wells, prayer meeting; Dorothy White, social. Others will be formed later.

Roosevelt Attends Robbins Funeral

New York, April 9 (AP).—With President Roosevelt and members of his family in attendance, funeral services were held today in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Incarnation for Warren Delano Robbins, United States minister to Canada.

Driven directly to the church on his arrival at the Pennsylvania Station, the President, with members of his family and the widow of the diplomat, occupied the first pew of the church.

The services were short. There was no eulogy and a mixed choir sang the processional and recessional.

After the services, the President, his heavily-tanned face one of sorrow, stood in his pew, leaning on the arm of his eldest son, James Roosevelt, as the crowd left the church. Mrs. Robbins and her children were first to leave. They were followed by the President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, the President's wife, his daughter, Mrs. Anna Boettiger, and the younger Mrs. James Roosevelt.

The apple market was about steady especially on fruit of attractive quality and good condition. Trading was generally slow. Fresh receipts from this state were relatively light, but fair supplies were on hand from previous arrivals. Western New York Baldwin apples, N. Y. U. S. grade No. 1, 2 1/2 inch and upward peddled out at $1.50 per crate or bushel basket. King No. 1, 2 1/2 inch and upward sold at $1.37 1/2. McIntosh No. 1, 2 1/2 inch and upward $1.50-$2.00. Rhode Island Greening No. 1, 2 1/2 inch and upward $1.25-$1.50 and Rome Beauty No. 1, 2 1/2 inch $1.40-$1.50.

Through With Liquor
Several days ago a man asked Jailor Tom Foster what his chance for immunity from prosecution would be if he brought in his still. Foster forgot about the matter until yesterday, when the man drove up to the jail with a still on the back of his truck. "I brought this still in like I promised," the man said. "Come and get it. I'm through with liquor." District Attorney Elmer L. Lincoln granted the man immunity and said he would do likewise for all moonshiners who had decided to give up competition with Arkansas' legal liquor.

Spares Two Lives.

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—Governor Lehman today stepped in to save the lives of Matias Leytelegian and Nahan Sarkisian, who were to have died Thursday night for the murder of an archbishop in New York city. The governor changed their punishment to life imprisonment because of "most unusual circumstances."

TIME FOR THE BIG PUSH

Now that the big work relief bill is passed, the country, like Congress, breathes a sigh of relief. It is time to turn from talk to action. The governmental departments that are to handle this huge fund have presumably been busy planning for its disbursement during the long argument in Congress, and should be ready to go ahead with many projects within a few weeks. Foresighted communities throughout the country have likewise used the time to advantage in preparing plans for local undertakings. Both at Washington and at the receiving ends of this wide-rung relief system, there should now be a burst of activity.

Spring is the seasonable time to launch such a national enterprise.
 Spring is here. The spurt of private building activity that used to be expected at this time of year has not developed, although there is more construction under way than there has been for three or four years. If the government can really launch a considerable number of well prepared federal building projects without further delay, they should accomplish the double purpose of spurring private enterprise while taking idle workers off the dole.

The time is here, more definitely than it has been since this depression began, for public and private enterprise to pull together in a supreme effort to get the economic system back to normal operation.

PUBLIC MORALE

Encouraging words were spoken by Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, at the annual stockholders' meeting. He announced a healthy gain of orders in the first quarter of this year, and added:

With these figures before us, and fully realizing that our country is still young, rich in natural resources, and has a low density of population, and still presents plenty of opportunity even along pioneering lines, our optimism should dispel the clouds which the depression has brought forth.

It would not be strange if a depression complex had been generated in the public mind. Yet there is an inspiring morale throughout the nation.

There is, indeed, an inspiring morale when you consider the disasters that have come to so many Americans. Millions have lost all they had, and tens of millions are still living with forced frugality on public charity. Yet the nation has borne up and carried on.

And it is no more than fair to add that those who have suffered most, the small-salaried and wage-earning classes, have been most patient, brave and hopeful. It is the business classes who have succumbed most to the "depression complex." Happily the latter are beginning to emerge from their gloom, as evidence of slow but sure recovery becomes plain to all.

NEW ACRES OF TREES

Tree-planting is beginning to amount to something in the United States. The American Tree Association reports that 162,000,000 trees were set out in national and state forest lands last year, breaking all records. The 78,000,000 added to the national forests were more than three times the average plantings before the depression. New York led the state plantings with 40,544,352 trees. Next came Wisconsin with more than 14 million and Michigan with more than 12,000,000. Pennsylvania and Minnesota each planted more than 3,000,000 trees.

The Civilian Conservation Corps made possible the big increase in tree planting on public lands. Highway beautification movements in many sections are multiplying the trees along roadsides. Farmers here and there are setting out hundreds of young evergreens on some of the land withdrawn from food crop production.

Every bit helps. It looked a short time ago as if we had postponed our reforestation too long and would never again restore destroyed forests.

 Now that the trend has swung so strongly in the other direction, our timber future looks hopeful.

THREE CONTINENTS

An interesting statement was made in Tokyo the other day by Elji Amau, the government's "foreign spoken-man." Since Japan's treaty with Great Britain and her understanding with France no longer exist, she watches developments in Europe
 "unattached, and without any policy except the advancement of her security in the Far East."

He suggests "neutralizing" Russia's eastern frontiers to avoid a conflict.
 "Russia's heart throbs in Moscow," says Mr. Amau. "I doubt if Russia has vital interests in East Asia. If there is a fire in East Asia, it is our fire, and we must extinguish it by any means." Peace, he says, is best assured by Europeans in Europe, by Americans in America, and by Asiatics in Asia. He implies that Japan will attend to her own business, leaving Europe and America to attend to theirs.

This statement is not promising for the traditional American policy of maintaining the "open door in China." It is none too favorable for British and French business interests in eastern Asia. But it sounds like common sense.

That Body of Yours

BY
 James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

RESERVE STRENGTH

A physician knows that the body is not like a machine that is working at its greatest capacity all the time. As a matter of fact your body is capable of doing a great deal more work than it is ever called upon to do.

Thus we find an extra eye, an extra lung, an extra kidney, extra glands in various parts of the body;
 we know that the liver is much larger than it needs to be, that the heart can beat twice as often and pump twice as much blood with every beat as it does under ordinary circumstances. In fact half of such important organs as the liver, pancreas, kidneys, lungs, stomach, small intestine and large intestine could be removed and the body would still keep on doing its work.

As Prof. W. B. Cannon, Harvard University, points out, Nature is ready for more than the ordinary needs of the body, and it is because the body has this extra strength which it can use in emergencies that the physician is able to restore health to those who are sick.

A trained physician knows the body knows how much extra strength the body can exert in emergencies and endeavors to prevent anything interfering with the body's effort to use this extra power or strength.

Thus outside heat, and heat manufactured by the body by the processes going on within it, may increase the body temperature to a dangerous height unless the alert physician prevents it. Or great fear can act on certain organs and cause great body disturbances. The family physician can so explain this that the patient is reassured and loses his fear.

Now when anything goes wrong with the body the physician knows that if given time the body will right itself because of this extra or reserve strength it possesses, and the physician is able to explain to the patient why time is necessary to recover and thus instills patience and hope in the patient.

In the body there are admirable devices for maintaining its ability to keep on working despite attacks of illness from within and without,
 and there is extra strength and extra working ability if special needs arise.

Therefore when we are afflicted and our body resources seem low, we should think of these powers of protection and healing which are ready to work for the bodily welfare.

GREAT RICHES

by Mabel House Farnham

SYNOPSIS: Jane Stinson takes a picture in her life. She is a woman who has been through a great deal of life.
 She has been married and divorced. She has been a mother and a widow. She has been a success and a failure.
 She has been a woman who has been through a great deal of life.

Chapter 22 RECONCILED

WHEN they were alone, Jane came up to him and slipped an affectionate arm through his.

She looked so pretty in her gleaming satin and lace that James' irritation vanished and he could do nothing but agree that it had been a lovely dinner, and that he was glad they had given it.

Jane, when she chose, could still be very tender and alluring, and now, of course, she must be most carefully cherished and considered.

Perhaps after the baby came things would be different and Jane not so avid for excitement. James knew he must have more time for his work, more time for study. Jane wanted him to succeed, expected him to succeed, but some way she could not realize that she, as well as he, must pay a price for that success. It was natural enough that Jane should not understand.

He would have to teach her, lead her instead of taking always the easier course of letting her lead him.
 Very tenderly he drew her down on his lap beside an open window after switching off the lights. "Honey," he began, "I want to have a talk with you—"

"I know that you are going to scold and I am so tired," she coaxed.
 "I'm not going to scold, dear."

"Then you're going to preach. I feel it in my bones. Can't we be happy like this on our anniversary without thinking of anything but pleasant things?"

Naturally, James did not preach on this night; and it was the same on other nights. As the months passed Jane was far from well and she grew more and more irritable and less easy to please. James felt guiltily conscious that it was all his fault.

Jane impressed it upon him that the lot of women was a hard one and scarcely to be endured. Mrs. Northrup looked at him accusingly every time her daughter sighed or refused pudding at dinner, and Anna sniffed scornfully whenever she passed him his food.

Their Sundays were more awful than James had conceived possible.
 He finally had given up spending his free afternoons with his aunt after Jane cried and cried and almost had hysterics, claiming that he did not love her.

Damn it! the lot of husbands was not always a round of voluptuous enjoyment whatever Jane and her mother thought about it. Heaven knows he hadn't invented the method and manner of bringing children into the world. He had thought that women wanted children and pitied old maids because of their childless state.

PERHAPS it is an exaggeration to say that all of New Concord was somewhat relieved when it became common knowledge that Jane was "expecting." However, it is true that all those who had James' interest and welfare at heart were relieved.

For some time during the close of the second year of their marriage the belief had become general that things weren't going just as they should between this especially selected and uncommonly well-edited young couple.

It was not that James complained or Jane complained or that they quarreled in public or were seen less often together. It was hard indeed to define just what seemed to be the matter, but that there was a vague "something" everyone agreed.
 And it was felt or at least hoped, that whatever ripples there were were caused entirely by the state of Jane's health and would be smoothed out and forgotten "after the baby came."

Nappy was perhaps the first one to "suspect" that James was not as happy as he should be and he, being worried, passed his uneasiness on to the Judge.

"It's Mister James' hair," he explained to Judge Holcomb. "It ain't been acting just right, not for a long while."

"His what?" boomed the Judge impatiently. He was getting old and his hearing bothered him and he flew into rages for no reason whatever.

"His hair, the hair on his head.
 I can most generally tell the state of Mister James' spirits by making note of how his hair acts. When he's raring round, feeling stiff to bust, you'll notice as how every hair on his head is standing upon its hind legs looking the world in the face and shouting 'howdy.'"

The Judge laughed. "Sounds like a Gorgon's head, the way you describe it."

"Yes, sir," said Nappy who had never heard of a Gorgon's head, but would not have admitted it for a hundred dollars. "It's one and the same thing to my way of believing."

"But what has James' hair been doing now to disturb you?"

"It ain't been doing nothing but lay down and play dead for weeks and weeks. That's as unnatural as for a lamb to lay down with a lion —and as sure a sign a trouble."

"Nonsense," said the Judge. "Jim's been putting some kind of grease on his head to make it flat. You're not as smart as I thought you were, going around making up trouble about nothing at all."

But though he dismissed Nappy, and laughed at his diagnosis, he could not dismiss altogether the sneaking suspicion that perhaps Nappy was right and that James was not looking nor acting quite like himself.

He'd get him to knock off a few weeks, go down to Hot Springs or up to Chicago and take in a few shows. A vacation would put him right as a fiddle. He should have thought of it before.

JAMES dutifully took Jane and went to Chicago for a week, but when he came back Nappy reported that his hair was "laying" as flat as when he left home. A few weeks later when James confessed Jane's condition to the Judge the old man was enormously relieved.

He patted James on the back, assured him cheerfully that there was nothing to worry about, reminded him of Jane's general health and of the billions of babies who came safely into the world without harm to their mothers.

Then the Judge very wisely sent James to work on the very stiffest legal problem he had ever before had to handle and when he finished that immediately found him another. This last probably saved James from going all the way to the following months, for he was horribly frightened thinking of the fate of his own mother.

Nappy continued to accord to Mrs.
 Stinson all the respect and deference due to the wife of his beloved "Mister" James, but he never again thoroughly approved of her. In his eyes any wife remained only a woman and a handicap to any real man.

But even Nappy forgave Jane one frosty morning in early December when James came stamping up the flight of stairs that led to the office and threw open the entrance door with a magnificent flourish.

His eyes flashed with their old fire, every single hair waved triumphantly aloft and his feet could scarcely keep themselves on the floor as he shouted out that there were twins at his home—a boy and a girl. As Nappy remarked, "Missus Stinson had more's done herself proud."

The entire firm of Stinson and Holcomb stopped work then and there and made a triumphal progress up and down Commercial Street announcing the news, giving away five-and-ten-cent cigars, receiving hilarious congratulations and having one very devil of a time.

When James went home he had a rocking horse under one arm, a doll under the other, a jeweler's box in his pocket and a bunch of flowers carried by a string in his hand.

Anna opened the door to James and gave a contemptuous sniff when she saw the nature of his packages, but as usual she made no comment. The house was up-naturally quiet and James tiptoed cautiously upstairs.

The door to Jane's room was slightly ajar and he pushed it open with his foot and entered quietly.
 Mrs. Northrup, sitting by the window sewing, held up a warning finger, but Jane opened her eyes and welcomed him. "Silly boy," she said when she saw the hobby horse and doll.

A Washington Daybook

By HERBERT PLUMMER

WASHINGTON—There is a striking parallel between the situation in Washington as President Roosevelt vacations in Florida with that prevailing a year ago when he slipped away for a similar jaunt.

It extends even to the personal.
 Last year he left the naval hospital here where his son John was confined after an operation for appendicitis and went directly to his train which took him to Florida. This year he bade farewell to his intimate friend and confidant, Col. Louis Howe, seriously ill at the White House, before starting south.

The situation in congress was similar in many respects.

Shortly before his departure in March, 1934—in fact, on the same day—news of the house of representatives overriding his independent office had been reached him.
 Not only was his budget estimates upset by this action, but it seemed at the time his administration stood to lose in prestige.

'Much To Be Desired'

DESPISE assurances from his aides on Capitol Hill that the present was the best time for him to get away for a needed rest, it still is true the situation in congress leaves much to be desired.

The threat of deadlocks on legislation marked for passage during this session troubles the administration.

The order is for full speed ahead during the President's absence on social security, elimination of utility holding company abuses, extension of NRA, transportation legislation, increased capital for HOLC, banking legislation and tightening up of pure food and drug laws.

It's an ambitious program and one which may be impossible of complete fulfillment this session.

A Rockier Road Now

YET, congressional leaders are not unmindful of what happened when a tanned and reinvigorated Franklin D. Roosevelt returned from Florida a year ago. Little of his program has been enacted, but by mid-June of 1934 these same leaders were surprised to see how much had been accomplished.

Whether there'll be a repetition of this sort of thing upon the President's return to Washington this year, whether the White House will be able to effect suitable compromises to further its program no one knows. What with Huey Long and the tendency of the senate as a whole to act independently on proposed legislation, the Roosevelt path in '35 is far from being as smooth as it was in '34.

No. 11—Meet Jupiter

Folks did a lot of talking when Sally and Bert got married, and a lot of bets were made as to how long the nuptial knot would stay tied.

The reason was not far to seek. Sally had struck town with a musical comedy show that became stranded after playing three nights to nearly empty seats in the old Academy of Music, while Bert was one of those quiet sort of men who had never been known to look at a girl.

In a small town where everyone knew everyone else you could hardly blame folks for talking, but I'll say this for Sally and Bert, if they knew folks were wondering how they had happened to hitch up in double harness they never let on that they knew it. They just went about their own affairs as if their marriage had no unusual feature about it.

They rented a little five room cottage and Sally settled down to the serious business of learning how to run a home efficiently on Bert's wages of $18 a week.

At first the women folks were inclined to be a little uppity, for they had their own opinion about a show girl, but Sally pursued the even tenor of her way. She made no overtures for friendship, and if the neighbors did not call to pay their respects to the new bride she never appeared to notice it. It took her several weeks to get adjusted to her new mode of life. The meals were the easiest part of the day for she was a natural born cook, but she was not overly fond of housework. As a matter of record what woman really is.

If marriage had made a big change in Sally, it had even made a greater change in Bert for he fairly blossomed out. No longer was he the rather hesitant, tongue-tied youth of his before marriage era, but a young man with sound ideas, and the ability to express them in conversation with other men at the industrial plant where he was employed.

Yes, married life had made a big change in Bert. In the evening during the summer months when he and Sally went for a trolley ride to Kingston Point he even wore white pants and shoes and went without his coat like the younger men of the town. As for Sally, for she was a prettier or more modestly behaved young woman it would have been hard to find.

Modern writers may scoff at the Sallys and Berts and say they lead a humdrum sort of life, but the fact remains that it is the Sallys and Berts who form the backbone of the nation, and support the politicians and hangers-on of government.

If you had told Sally or Bert that their lives were just plain humdrum they would have laughed at you for they found plenty of excitement in just being alive and in love with each other.

Every day brought a new thrill.
 There was the day, for instance, when Sally persuaded Bert to varnish the bedroom floor, and when the job was about completed they made the discovery that Bert was marooned in one corner of the room.
 Bert's remarks at that time were as highly polished as his footprints were visible on the newly varnished floor.

Saturday night shopping as they went up town on the trolley car and wandered through the stores, returning home later with their arms laden down with bundles.

It was on one of these shopping tours that they returned home with Jupiter, a little duckling they had purchased in the ten cent store.

Bert got a big kick out of building a home for the duckling, and both he and Sally that summer had the time of their lives in attending to the simple wants and needs of Jupiter, who grew thrifflily, and became so tame that the only time he was housed in his coop was when they went out for the evening.

During the day Jupiter had the run of the house and yard. Nothing pleased the duck more than to sit on a chair in the kitchen and watch Sally prepare the dinner, and he would quack indignantly when she shooed him out of the house as she prepared to spread the dining room table before Bert arrived home from work.

During one of the day Sally would talk gravely to Jupiter about this and that.

"Honey, Bert," she would say later, "I think that Jupiter knows what I am talking about for he will quack every once in a while as if

Old Man Winter Plays Shivery Joke on City

Although today was not the first of April, Old Man Winter evidently got his dates mixed for he played rather a shivery April Fool's joke on Kingston for when residents awoke this morning it was to find the ground covered with snow to a depth of fully an inch, and with snow still falling during the early hours of the morning. The snow was extremely wet and heavy, and under traffic turned into a mass of slush.

The snow storm broke over the city Monday evening and the snow was accompanied by a high wind. All during the night the snow continued falling and the temperature continued chilly.

The Street Singer

The efficiency which marked the meeting of professional and business girls of this section at the Y. W. C. A. over last week-end has brought a number of favorable comments from many in Kingston. The management of the several meetings which were held in the Y. W. building performed to perfection, dinners closed on time, sessions were never too long, and the general machinery ran with the precision known only to competent engineers.

It has not always been the experience of these girls to have such efficient management—at a recent convention the direct opposite was true. The visiting girls in each case are housed among friends of the association, and those acting as hosts are informed concerning the time of arrival of the guests following the conference banquet. In a recent session held elsewhere than Kingston the hosts were informed that the girls would arrive about 10 o'clock in the evening, but due to the excessively long program the actual arrival was an hour later than midnight. Girls apologized but they had caused their hosts inconvenience and discomfort.

Nothing like that happened here—the girls arrived at their various homes a few minutes ahead of the announced hour. The schedules were maintained perfectly, and girls were provided transportation in each case, so that they would be able to get to the meeting on time and with no thoughts of the confusion of a strange place.

The example set by the local Y. W. C. A. in caring for its guests is one to follow. Other organizations which have plans for guests in the city might well take to heart the efficient work of the local Y. W. and earn the gratitude of the visitors—who will see that Kingston is not only an attractive, progressive and desirable little city, but that its people are bending every effort to make their stay here the very best. The Y. W. is to be congratulated on its performance—it did a good job and did it well.

Choir to Practice for Easter Dawn Service

The first practice of the choir for the Easter Dawn Service which will be held in the rear of the high school on Easter morning at 7 o'clock will be held at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Miss Laura M. Bailey, director of Trinity Methodist Episcopal choir, will be in charge of the choir, and extends a cordial invitation to all who would like to unite for this service to be present on Wednesday evening.

The committee in charge of the Easter dawn program has nearly completed the program. The chorus choir plays an important part, and will add materially to the success of the service. The choral procession, sung call to worship and an anthem. The choir will also lead the singing of the hymns to be used during the service.

An invitation has been sent to all the known choir directors in the city, and all who are members of choirs, or who can sing, are invited to join the Easter dawn choir and practice at the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening. Those who cannot be at rehearsal on Wednesday are asked to leave their names at the Y. office and arrangements will be made to send music to them.

Notes from O. K.'s Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—New York's anti-suffrage bill was tossed into the assembly of the legislature today with the O. K. of the state senate stamped on its cover. The senate, dignified upper house of the legislature, by a vote of 25 to 14 last night expressed its view that New York should put clothes on its senators. If the lower house gives its approval and Governor Lehman signs the bill, a meeting of two or more persons of opposite sex, without clothing, will become an offense against the Empire State.

MILTON

Milton, April 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rush, the Misses Ruth and Mary Rush, Charles S. Rush, Mrs. Annie Rush and Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Kaley attended the funeral of John Calton in Peekskill Thursday morning. Mr. Calton died suddenly on Monday in his home from a heart attack. His widow was formerly Miss Julia Rush of Milton and a sister of Edward Rush. Mrs. Kaley and Miss Annie Rush.

The regular monthly meeting of the Milton W. C. T. U. will be held in the home of Mrs. Frank C. Wood Friday afternoon, April 12. Mrs. William R. Ordway will have charge of the program. The subject of the meeting will be Light Line Union.

Mrs. William E. Rhodes and Mrs. Elsie Hallock attended a meeting under the auspices of the Home Bureau in Kingston Wednesday. Miss Tobey, style expert of Cornell, was the speaker.

The Westminster Guild of the Milton Presbyterian Church met at the home of Miss Lila Barnes, president, Thursday afternoon.

The last of a series of four lessons on emotional behavior, under the leadership of Mrs. Edgar M. Clarke, was held in the Lattingtown School Friday afternoon.

Mrs. J. R. Woolsey, Jr., attended the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Gray, in Queens Village Friday evening. Burial was in Kensico cemetery Saturday, April 6. Mrs. Gray died suddenly following an operation.

The Sundstrom Motor Company of Newburgh reports the sale of a new truck to Walter R. Clarke of Milton. The Girls' 4-H Club held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Edgar M. Clark Saturday afternoon.

Wednesday afternoon the Ladies' Needlecraft and Women's Missionary Societies of the Milton Presbyterian Church were entertained in the home of Mrs. Adelaide Wilke, president of the Missionary Society. Mrs. Alfred Jenkins read a chapter from the Mission Study Book. Mrs. Oliver Kent conducted the Needlecraft meeting. The annual church fair was discussed and Saturday, July 13, is the time the fair will be held. Where the fair will be held has not as yet been decided upon. The committees will be the same as last year.

At the meeting Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Egbert Aisford read three spring poems and Miss Florence Hallock entertained with a piano solo. Several of the ladies will attend the Presbyterian meeting in Beacon Thursday, April 11. Mrs. Wilke is a member of the Presbyterian executive committee.

Sunday service was held in the Friends Church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Russell Branson of Clintondale officiated.

The annual meeting of the Milton Home Bureau was held in the Sarah H. Hallock Library building on Main street Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Edgar C. Rhodes was in charge. Mrs. William E. Rhodes was appointed to succeed Mrs. Herbert Bell as chairman. Other officers are: Secretary-treasurer, Mrs. William T. Lais; vice chairman for membership, Mrs. John Manion, Sr.; vice chairman for publicity, Mrs. Herbert Bell. Mrs. Edward Young, Sr., spoke on consumer buying and demonstrated the price per pound of various articles.

The supper planned by the men of the Milton Methodist Church for April 12 has been postponed for a few weeks.

The Lions Club of the town of Marlborough will meet Tuesday evening at Blossom Inn. The committee appointed last week to investigate the possibility of a community market for the town will probably make a report at this meeting.

William H. Donaldson was soloist at the Lattingtown Church Thursday evening. Mrs. E. C. Oliver accompanied him at the piano. A large number attended and all enjoyed the singing and pictures of the life of Jesus Christ which were shown.

Postmaster Michael Conroy was in Kingston Tuesday.

Arthur Kaley is very ill at his home on Main street. He is under the care of Dr. Bassau of Milton and Dr. McCambridge of Poughkeepsie.

George Scott sustained a severe laceration of his hand while loading one of the Dirigo trucks.

Miss Thelma Rooden of Kingston has been a guest of her sister, Mrs. Edward Young, Jr.

Mrs. Fred Diagonou and daughter, Merideth, of Ellambothtown are visiting at the home of the former's sister, Mrs. William H. Donaldson.

Miss Lulu Clarke, Mrs. C. R. Taber, Mrs. William Lais and Mrs. C. J. Heyworth attended the meeting of the Community Garden Club in the lecture room of the American Reformed Church, Newburgh, Wednesday afternoon. The annual flower show will be held in the Newburgh Y. M. C. A. Tuesday, June 11.

Freddie and Eleanor Viscounti have been confined to their home with the measles. They are now able to attend school again.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Heyworth returned home Monday from their winter vacation motor trip.

Dr. and Mrs. A. C. J. Gervais and children returned home Friday from Tucson, Arizona, where they spent the winter. Dr. Gervais' health is much better and his many friends here are very glad to have him with them again.

Mrs. Elsie Hallock attended a Grange lecturers' conference in Poughkeepsie Thursday.

The five months old son of Eugene Schoonover of the turnpike road has recovered from an attack of pneumonia.

Tentative plans have been made for a sunrise service to be held Easter morning. The churches of both Milton and Marlborough will cooperate. The committee in charge of arrangements consists of the ministers of the churches.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

Dine—
in black chiffon.
Dance—
in plaid taffeta.
Liane Marwin

For dining in or dining out, chiffon is a favored fabric—always fascinating in black and delicate in the pastel tints. Taffeta in a lighter weight is being stressed for formal wear and who would dispute its crisp, dancing qualities?

Plaids are youthful and right in line with the bright and gay colorings scheduled for the coming season.

The brown and yellow plaid taffeta evening gown above has the new square front neckline and the much talked of covered shoulders. A self-bow trims the front and a self-crushed sash marks the waistline. The back forms a low V décolletage outlined with ruffling. Bows, ruffles and soft touches show the trend for femininity, which Dame Fashion tells us is being revived with "gusto".

The black chiffon dinner dress uses the sleek hip-line contour and with all the new full-skirted gowns coming in—there are many stream-line, figure-moulding silhouettes in the showings, for not every woman can wear the full skirt well.

Dusty pink grosgrain ribbon in tailored bows smartly trim this gown; and the shoulders are demurely covered. The deep flounce at hem placed at an angle gives a self-crushed effect and produces much walking grace.

Here's a dress dear to any little girl's heart. And mother will like it too. It's easy to make and repress after tubbing. It opens out flat!

While nautical blue and white cotton made the original model, another very cunning scheme is candy striped percale in red and white.

Style No. 2769 is designed for sizes 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 1 1/2 yards of 35-inch material with 2 1/4 yards of braid. 3 1/2 yards of 39-inch dark contrasting; 1 1/2 yard of 12-inch contrasting for shield.

Send TEN CENTS (10c) in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Write plainly NAME, ADDRESS AND STYLE NUMBER. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE YOU WISH.

BARBARA BELL FASHION PATTERNS

Pattern No. 1631-B

Smart Two-Piece Frock for Matrons

Two-piece tailored styles are winning choices with the large woman who is out for a dress that will adapt itself to service in many fields and always set her off to advantage.

Today's illustration shows a model fashioned with simplicity yet replete with such perfect taste that it can be worn for matinee, bridge parties, club meetings, and all types of travel.

The overblouse is becomingly surplised with darts and set-in sleeves giving it a smart, well-cut line. Because collars take from the appearance of height the neckline is finished with rows of stitching instead and for softness it is trimmed with a large bow, diagonally placed with the top stitched to the left side so that it remains in place. A slash is made in the right side of the blouse and the lower end of the bow is drawn through.

The skirt is made with just a flared panel down the front and a plain back so that it can be put to work as a separate wardrobe item whenever it is needed.

For this pattern we suggest any material that is of a suitable weight to tailor nicely.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1631-B is designed in sizes 26, 28, 30, 32, 34 and 36. Size 36 requires 4 1/2 yards of 39 inch material.

Tomorrow: Simple sports dress with new trend.

Cheese "King of Foods" Is Aid to Dollar-Stretching Budgets

Enormous Number of Varieties Provides Endless Delights in Flavors and Textures

By PETER G. TEN EYCK
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, New York

IN these times when nearly all are stretching the dollar to its limit, it would be well for the housewife in arranging her daily menu to consider the food value of a pound of cheese and see if cheese cannot be substituted for other and more expensive foods and with benefit to the physical well being of the consumer.

So well advertised has been the value of milk as a food and the necessity for its use in the maintenance of a sound and healthy body, that the food value of its by-products such as butter and cheese, has been almost entirely forgotten. Yet, cheese contains the same vitamins so essential to health and vigorous growth as does milk, and in a concentrated form. It has certain advantages over milk. It is easier handled, costs less to transport and will keep much longer, and as made in almost numberless varieties tempting to the palate.

An Economy Food

Cheese is an economical food. Researches of the National Dairy Council, Chicago, Ill., show that one pound of cheese produces as much energy as 6.5 pounds of chicken, or 2 1/4 pounds of beefsteak, or 1 1/2 pounds of ham, or 8 pounds of peas, or 7 pounds of codfish.

The King of Foods

Cheese is called the King of Foods. Why? Largely because the palate seldom stales, due to the almost numberless varieties, each differing from the other in taste, texture, etc., and to the further fact that cheese is good by itself or used in cooked dishes in almost numberless ways.

There are certain prejudices against the use of cheese which are largely groundless. First, that it is indigestible; second, that it is constipating. This, however, is not so. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, in the large number of experiments which were conducted, young men in good health were fed on a diet consisting of bread and fruit, combined with American factory cheese, which was made with different amounts of rennet and in different stages of ripening. The results showed that over 90 per cent of the nitrogenous material of the cheese was digested; that is, retained in the body. Nearly 90 per cent of the energy it supplied was available. In other words, cheese compares favorably with other food in thoroughness of digestion; that is, in the percentage finally digested. Furthermore, it did not cause constipation or other physiological disturbances.

For Boys and Girls

Cheese, like milk, is an invaluable food for nursing mothers and growing children. It gives them the lime and phosphorus necessary for growing bones, and is an excellent source of mineral salts and vitamins. It furnishes heat and calories for the body and will guard a child against a deficient diet. Mothers should see that their growing boys and girls eat some cheese each day.

FLOODING MISSISSIPPI TRAPS MUCH WILD LIFE

Red Wing, Minn., (AP)—Spring floods in the bottom lands of the Mississippi river are taking a huge toll of wild life, say sportsmen.

Ordinarily animals would shun the low lands, but due to the absence of floods in the last six years they have built dens close to the main channel.

Red Wing sportsmen are going to the rescue of fox, woodchucks, rabbits and squirrels isolated on islands formed by rising waters, and are taking them off in rowboats.

Others report seeing various species of wild life marooned on stumps surrounded by water, or clinging to logs floating downstream.

It's still anybody's guess whether we're going to "fatten out the economic cycle," as the economists used to promise, or whether it's going to fatten us out.

Scrambled Eggs With Spanish Sauce

Everyone will find this nutritious dish tempting and palatable:

1 dozen eggs
1 pint milk
1/2 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 cup soft bread crumbs

Soak the bread crumbs in part of the milk. Beat the eggs, add the milk and seasonings, then the crumbs. Place in the top of a double boiler and cook, stirring occasionally. Serve with Spanish Sauce.

Selma Almfelt Files Bankruptcy Petition

New York, April 8 (Special)—A voluntary petition and schedules in bankruptcy were filed in United States District Court here today by Selma J. Almfelt of 153 Wall street, Kingston. The petitioner, who is a nurse, lists liabilities of $3,787, of which $7,300 is a secured claim held by the HOLC on her property at Wall street. Assets are stated to be $9,980 and include $7,500 in real estate, the value of the mortgaged property.

Other creditors, all of Kingston, include: Kingston Oil Co., owed $408; A. D. Rose, Inc., $500; John Beatty, $155; S. Weisberg, $165; Carey's Insurance Agency, $105; and Fred M. Dressel, $333. Other Kingstonites hold smaller claims.

We don't quite get the psychology of the minister in Birmingham, Ala., who was serving on a jury that wanted to go to a movie show. He went along so the others could go, but wore a handkerchief over his eyes because he has conscientious scruples against movies. How about the scriptural principle, "to the pure all things are pure?"

Brighten up with ALL-BRAN!

You've had days when you've felt discouraged and low. Nothing seemed to go right. Frequently these dreary days can be traced to common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in your meals.

This ailment may cause headaches and loss of energy. Correct it by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory research shows Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to aid elimination. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and food-iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables. It is gentle—and often more effective. Isn't this natural food better than taking patent medicines—often harmful?

Two tablespoonsful of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal, in chronic cases. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Brighten days with ALL-BRAN! Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Keep on the Sunny Side of Life

WHAT IS THE JURY Thinking ABOUT?

A SUCCESSFUL advertiser, like a successful lawyer must know, for the people who read the ads are the jury that sits in judgment upon every advertising effort. Not to know what type of people they are, what influences their opinions, what they think about, is to run the risk of failing to impress them. And failure to impress potential customers is failure to get results.

The Daily Freeman provides, through its exclusive Meyer Roth franchise, an advertising service which is free to Daily Freeman advertisers—made of illustrations, plus ideas, copy and layouts that have been tested by the Meyer Roth Research Department for their ability to win the jury.

Gen. Ludendorff Gets Nation's Honor at 70 In Blomberg Speech

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)
Tutzing, Germany, April 9.—Gen. Werner von Blomberg, the minister of war, today paid tribute to Gen. Erich Ludendorff as "the great field commander of the World War under whose leadership Germany braved a world of enemies."

The tribute was addressed directly to Ludendorff as all Germany celebrated the former quartermaster general's 70th birthday anniversary, the celebration centering here at Ludendorff's home.

Ludendorff, who for the first time in years had donned his general's full dress uniform with spiked helmet and full decorations listened with obvious emotion as Von Blomberg said: "With the introduction of compulsory military service, the new German defense force has again approached in construction the defense force before the war and of war times. That force was decisively influenced and led before and during the great struggle by the soldier Ludendorff. His spirit will descend upon the new defense force also."

When the war minister ended his speech, two squadrons of Germany's new air force roared overhead and a bouquet of roses was dropped.

Thousands of spectators and the honor company of the Munich Infantry Regiment gathered at Ludendorff's home. With them was a military band and four flags of the 39th Regiment of Fusiliers, which, during the war, bore the name "Regiment General Ludendorff."

High dignitaries of the government directed their steps toward the old warrior's Bavarian retreat, an hour's drive from Munich, to felicitate him on his 70th birthday anniversary.

Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense; Gen. Werner von Fritsch, Reichswehr chief of staff, and leaders of the old Imperial Army with Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm as their spokesman were among those who caused greetings.

Crowds surrounded Ludendorff's simple and comfortable two-story gabled country manor early in the day in the hope of getting a glimpse of the general.

An added air of excitement was produced by the expectation that Reichsfuehrer Hitler himself might appear later to express his good wishes and thereby affirm that the feud which has separated him from his one-time associate has been healed.

A noted exception in these gestures of respect, however, was afforded by the Roman Catholic and Confessional synods, which announced they would remain aloof from the celebrations.

Hitler's Proclamation
"With feelings of deep gratitude," Der Fuehrer's proclamation said, "the German people remember the imperishable achievement of its greatest field commander of the World War. Impressed by this sentiment and the national debt of gratitude, I, therefore, order all government buildings to be flagged April 9."

As if to forestall any call on his services on terms other than those imposed by himself, Ludendorff flatly declined to accept the title of field marshal tendered him by the government, saying his present designation as "feldherr," field commander, was sufficient.

"LOOK WHO'S HERE" AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN HALL
Riches furnished on a promise not to marry and what happens when the promise is broken will furnish a supply of laughs Wednesday night when the Peeters Dramatic Club presents the comedy, "Look Who's Here!" in the First Presbyterian Church hall on Tremper avenue, under the auspices of the Senior Choir Association.

The play, in three acts, shows what fun can happen for the audience.

The play will start at 8:15. Its author is Charles George, master of social complications. The players are members of the Epworth League of the Port Ewen Methodist Episcopal Church. The director is the Rev. J. Thoburn Legg. Characters are as follows:

Lola Jump takes the part of Aunt Alice; Roger Mable is her entangled nephew; Lyman Winchell, while Harriet Clark takes the part of his wife. Estelle, Leslie L. Munson proves a real pal to him as Tommy Rotenbach and the part of his fiancée, Grace Sterling, is taken by Betty L. Tiney. There are two girl friends, Rose Stanford (Elaine Short), and Irene Andrews, taken by Dorothy Atkins. Gordon Clark fulfills the requirements as Jimmy, a delivery boy, and Mary Tinnie dusts the set off as Jennie, a maid.

Members of the Senior Choir Association will be on hand to furnish fillings for the sweet tooth between the acts and after the final curtain.

Consent Bill Passes
Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—A bill supported by New York's Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine, making it a misdemeanor to conspire with known criminals, passed the Assembly of the New York legislature last night only after an hour's bitter debate on its constitutionality.

The measure, throwing the burden of proof on the person under suspicion, was approved by a 51-16 vote. It now goes to the Senate.

Assemblyman Saul S. Kunitz, Louis A. Cavaliere, Leonard Farnham and John A. Ryan, all New York Democrats, accepted the bill as a restriction of constitutional rights. Ryan charged the bill would be made a "club proposition" by the New York police department.

Modern Women
The comedy drama, "The First Year," written by Frank Craven, will be presented in the Kingston Municipal Auditorium on Thursday evening under the auspices of the emergency relief bureau. This play had a most successful run on Broadway in New York. The cast is composed of actors from the drama department of the State TEA.

Richard Barringer of Woodstock was a caller Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Henry Wells. Barringer, a native of Ohio, is now engaged in farming in the neighboring township.

Thomas Nugent of Pittsfield, Mass., is sojourning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Elmendorf in the village center.

Political Animosity Smoulders in Danzig

Free City of Danzig, April 9 (AP).—The fires of political animosity smouldered today as anti-Nazi charged Nazis with wrecking the city's constitution and announced their intention of appealing to the League of Nations for a new parliamentary election.

Anti-Nazi groups drew up three petitions branding Sunday's balloting as illegal because it was conducted by a government alleged to be wielding power in violation of the constitution.

The memorials sought to have the league set aside the results of Sunday's voting, in which Nazis won a majority but fell short of the two-thirds margin on which they staked their hopes as a move toward reunifying Danzig with the Fatherland.

The petitions were drawn up by members of the Catholic, Socialist and Polish parties.

As a result of the anti-Nazi protests, the League of Nations Council, in the midst of efforts to persuade Germany to return to Geneva, will be called on to make a decision which may directly affect the international peace negotiations.

If the council upholds the Danzig constitution, it will throw a protective blanket over the first opposition which so far has been able to defy Hitlerism. This, the anti-Nazis are aware, would be likely to irritate the Berlin government, which might use the situation as a further argument against returning to the league.

The protests will be handed to Sean Lester, league high commissioner for Danzig, who will send them to Geneva with an impartial report of the Free City's difficulties.

Nazi senators will argue at Geneva that the council cannot fail to observe that 60 per cent of Danzig's voters favor national socialist methods and that the league as a democratic institution must bow to the majority.

Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense; Gen. Werner von Fritsch, Reichswehr chief of staff, and leaders of the old Imperial Army with Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm as their spokesman were among those who caused greetings.

Crowds surrounded Ludendorff's simple and comfortable two-story gabled country manor early in the day in the hope of getting a glimpse of the general.

As if to forestall any call on his services on terms other than those imposed by himself, Ludendorff flatly declined to accept the title of field marshal tendered him by the government, saying his present designation as "feldherr," field commander, was sufficient.

Communion services were held in the Reformed Church Sunday morning. Herman Wendt was received into the congregation on this sacramental occasion.

One of the New York city spent the week-end with his family at the Ganter homestead on the old state road.

The number of visiting fishermen in the north reservoir section Saturday and Sunday was fairly large. The ground was white with snow early on the opening day of the trout season and the local streams were still too low for good fishing.

Miss Ruth Donohue of Krumville is employed at Dr. Hans Cohn's in the village center.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Quick of Mombaccus were numbered among the many callers in the hub of the reservoir section Sunday. Mr. Quick operates a milk truck in the neighboring town of Rochester.

Joe Saxen, who is stationed at a CCC camp near Hyde Park, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Reynolds Bishop.

Alonso Davis, enterprising Tongore expressman, has invested in a new Chevrolet truck with a green paint job.

Several farmhouses and other homes in the heights section are being wired for electricity.

George Kelder, formerly of Kingston, is now well settled in his new business enterprise, the Orchard Lunch and camp, in the west end of the village.

Banister Nadal, present proprietor of the old John Weeks farm in the upper mountain road neighborhood, is keeping about twenty sheep and at present has twelve lambs. Years ago nearly every hill farmer kept a few sheep; today the flocks of these profitable animals can be counted on the fingers of one hand.

1895, Henry Coons and George Whittle, whose adjoining farms lay near the Black Brook, sold lambs, averaging 75 or 80 pounds each, for four cents a pound on the hoof. Rather an unattractive price in the light of current meat quotations, yet three farmers had plenty of mountain land suitable for pasturing sheep and did well by their flock.

Dr. Sidney Glass, 1st lieutenant, M. R. C., has been assigned to Camp No. 75, Tannersville, in addition to his medical duties at Camp No. 2, Boiceville.

New Palz Normal School Activities

The riding club, which is affiliated with the townspeople of New Palz, held an important meeting last Monday, the president, Mrs. Martin Lee DuBois, presided. The annual horse show will be held Saturday afternoon, May 4, on the New Palz Flats. There will be no admission but contributions to the Milk Fund will be solicited. As usual there will be five classes. They are: Children's class (Western Saddle); Children's class (English Saddle); Normal Advanced class; Normal Beginners' class, and the open class. There will be an exhibition of harding, a water race and "Roman riding." Through the cooperation of some of the townspeople a men's group has been organized by Mrs. DuBois. It numbers 14 so far. The men will have a chair race and a flag race, which will add to the attraction of the program. Mrs. DuBois is being assisted by Kenneth Vanderlyn.

Miss Ruth Havens of the faculty spent the week-end in Baltimore with her brother, who is a professor at Johns Hopkins University.

Hilda Lybolt, Albert Dodd, Phil Townsend, Doris Wallace, Dorothy Knowles, Adalyn Hopkins and Lou Gluckman have completed their practice-teaching by earning "A's".

The Kindergarten Primary Club, the oldest organization in the school, held its annual banquet Tuesday evening, April 2. The banquets have been held since 1922.

Louise Swinden was a week-end guest of Jay Anderson at Peekskill. Helen Bogert, class of 1933, who teaches at Maranock, L. I., visited her sorority, the Arethusa, this week while spending her Spring vacation with her parents in town.

Thelma Deidrick, Stella Kayuka, Irene Newkirk and Miriam Celaski are among the students now doing their Junior teaching.

Fran Deutch was given a surprise birthday party at the Pi Sigma Lambda last week.

Dot Whitford is doing cadet teaching this quarter.

Beatrice Schmidt, Wilhelmina Hines, George Carter and Aggie McCaffrey have returned from cadet teaching in Poughkeepsie.

Rita Clark is ill with the measles. Ann Goveiro spent the week-end with Cora Galuppo at Millbrook.

Ann Seamus took the leading role in the opera, "The Mikado," given at Smith College Tuesday night.

KERHONKSON HEIGHTS
Kerhonkson Heights, April 9.—Ralph Dewey and family of Tillson spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Krom.

Mrs. N. J. Maters and son, Milford, have returned to their home after spending a few days with relatives at Neversink.

Mrs. J. C. DePuy and daughter, Augusta Mae, and Mrs. G. Miller were Kingston visitors on Saturday.

Elison Chrysler is very busy with the work on his new gasoline stand. Benjamin Outerhouth is helping him.

Mr. and Mrs. George Outerhouth spent Saturday afternoon in Ellenville.

Ira Decker is making extensive improvements on the farm he now owns, the Blacmar Farm.

Mrs. J. C. DePuy and family spent the week-end at Loch Sheldrake.

Our Growing Population
The following births have been reported to the Board of Health:

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Jankowski of 37 Third avenue, a son, Frank Robert, at Kingston Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Bellenhausen of Hurley, a daughter, Beverly Ina, at Kingston Hospital.

Needy Family Needs Crib
At the local ERB (this morning) it was stated that they had need of a crib for a baby in a needy family on the relief rolls. If any one desires to donate a crib they can get in touch with the bureau and it will be called for.

Benefit Card Party
There will be a benefit card party at the Randall store, Wall street, Thursday evening, April 11, starting at 8:15 o'clock. The public is invited.

W. G. GARDEN
Dormant dahlias roots may be planted as soon as all danger of frost is past. Green plants should be planted somewhat later. Late planting is necessary in the south to avoid maturity in mid-summer. Roots should be set in rows 2 to 4 feet apart, the distance apart in the row depending upon the pattern desired. Plants that are staggered in several rows instead of being planted in rows, will produce finer specimens. The roots should be laid on their sides, with the growing shoot toward a stake, which is used to mark the row as well as support the young plant from its earliest development. In the late summer, as the plants begin to show flowers, it is best to remove all early buds until the approach of cooler weather.

Salvation Army House Destroyed By Fire

but little damaged by water and today the business of the Army was being carried on as usual.

The fire was confined to the upper floor and the only damage by fire visible on the lower floor is a small hole which was burned in the ceiling of the office directly under where the fire started.

Very Old Landmark
This old stone house which for many years was the headquarters for the Salvation Army is one of the oldest houses in Kingston. During the past several years additions have been built to it to care for the increasing duties of the Army. The old stone house was built in 1670 by Anthony Hoffman and was one of the old fortified houses of the village of Kingston. In the house were embrasures for use of riflemen repelling attacks by the Indians who used to attack the home of the early settlers of the village.

Thanks Firemen
Adjutant Seiler this morning expressed his appreciation over the work of the firemen who confined the fire to the small area. With the high wind which was blowing at the time the fire might easily have been of a far more serious nature. The fact that the old house has a tin roof was of great assistance in preventing the spread of flames and at one time a portion of the roof was not hot from the blaze. Mr. Seiler asked The Freeman to express his deep appreciation to the firemen for their work.

WOODSTOCK.
Woodstock, April 9.—On Easter Sunday a sunrise service will be held at Allen Crest at 5 a. m.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hogan have returned from Kingston to their Wittenberg home.

Mrs. Henrietta Lanning has returned to Woodstock after a three months' stay in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kingsbury spent a few days recently in Woodstock.

The Lydian Society will meet on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. G. W. Riseley.

The American Legion plans a card party for Friday, April 12.

Miss Florence Riseley is visiting her sister, Mrs. Leroy Hunt, in Tarrytown.

John Hurt is recovering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Clara Park has returned to her home on Ohayo mountain.

Mrs. Frederick Berche has returned from Kingston with her newly arrived son, Frederick Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Locke have returned from Florida to make preparations for the summer season at the Woodstock Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins, who have been in charge of the Inn all winter, will return to their home on the Rock City road.

Betty Thompson returned from Irvington, N. Y., with Mr. and Mrs. Hanno Schrader, with whom she visited last week. While there she saw several plays in New York and visited numerous friends there. She lunched with her cousin, Miss Marcella Mulloy.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanno Schrader spent a busy week-end in Woodstock getting their home in Bearsville ready for their arrival early in May.

A house fire alarm sent out Sunday afternoon took a large number of Woodstockers from their Sunday leisure to the Foster-Bateman property on the Glasco turnpike only to find that it was a small brush fire requiring scarcely any attention.

The absence of the trees cut down by the road construction near Riseley's bridge makes the scene very strange and bare. Woodstock is now accumulating itself to the lack of some of its loveliest trees.

Last Wednesday's discussion on economics subjects at the library was well attended by an enthusiastic group. The topic included discussion of Huey Long and Father Coughlin. This Wednesday's will be on "Consumption and Distribution."

Billy Owen returned from New York recently.

ROSENDALE.
Rosedale, April 9.—Miss Florence Buckley spent the week-end at her home.

Miss Dolores Hayden of Poughkeepsie spent her spring vacation with her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Gerard and family of Bellville, N. J., spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rutger Ten Hagen.

The Valley Inn entertained a number of out-of-town guests over the week-end.

The Rosendale I-H Club is holding a bake sale at Auchmoody's hardware store Saturday afternoon, April 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kelly entertained a number of friends and relatives from Athens on Friday evening.

Mrs. Eileen Burger of Chicago, Ill., is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Leary. The friends of Mrs. O'Leary will be glad to hear she is doing nicely after her recent operation.

The regular missionary meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Rosendale Reformed Church will be held Wednesday afternoon, April 10, at the Bloomingtown parsonage at 2 p. m.

Mrs. Earl Osterhout of Stone Ridge and her mother, Mrs. James Myers, of Samburgville, spent Friday afternoon with Miss Clara M. Helms.

Mrs. C. Creeden and daughter, Delmar, are spending a few days in Washington, D. C.

Dairy Leader to Speak To Holstein Breeders

C. H. Baldwin, former Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, to Address Group at New Palz Monday Night.

C. H. Baldwin, former Commissioner of Agriculture and Markets, will address the Holstein breeders of Ulster county at a banquet to be held at New Palz Grange Hall, April 15, 1935. This banquet is being sponsored by the local Holstein Club in cooperation with the State Holstein Association and is an annual affair held for the purpose of creating good will among the Holstein breeders in the development of the breed in this territory. Every owner of black and white cattle is invited and urged to attend. The ladies and children are especially invited.

Mr. Baldwin is the main speaker of the evening and is considered one of the leading lecturers for the dairy industry of the state according to Jesse Doy, of New Palz, president of the local club.

While he was commissioner, Mr. Baldwin assumed the leadership in obtaining more favorable markets for milk. The development of state codes and programs of milk marketing has made necessary a very active campaign to protect the interest of the producer of Holstein milk. He will tell New York breeders how they can better cooperate in improving the markets for their product.

In addition to Mr. Baldwin, a banquet and program has been arranged with local talent, community singing and remarks by E. J. Chaffee, president of the State Association.

GAS BUGGIES—How Else Could They Learn.

The New Disease
Cold and stiff they found him, with a peaceful look, though dead.
"A case of Super-Taxia," the coroner's jury said.
His state tax and county tax then worried him full sore.
His personal and income tax then fretted him some more.
His motor tax and dog tax disturbed his mental ease.
Amusement tax, employment tax, and sur-tax pullman fees.
Tax on safe-deposit box, tax on checks he wrote.
Borrowed cash, and then they taxed his promissory note.
A road tax and a school tax made him sad and blue.
He had to take a stimulant, and he found it was taxed too.
A clothing tax near stripped him. He paid on shirts and bait.
Plus taxes on cigars and beer and everything he ate.
But now at last, all overtaxed his soul has flown its life.
Be it up or down he's satisfied, for he'll find no taxes there.

The easiest way to turn the average man against doing a thing is to tell him that he ought to do it. Most men want to do the things that they want to do and they are more likely to do things if they don't have to do them unless they want to.

Noss—Don't tell me you want the day off to attend your grandmother's funeral.
Stenographer—No sir. It's her wedding.

The radio is a new and noisy method of letting peddlers into your house.

Fair Daughter—You should make allowances for Harold's little shortcomings.
Father—I'm not kicking about his shortcomings; it's his long stayings.

Life seems to have become a slow and painful process of shedding teeth, hair and illusions.

A Civil War veteran spent a week at a New York hotel. When he went to pay his bill the clerk asked: "Clerk—What was your rank?" "Veteran—Oh, just a private." "Clerk—Well, I won't charge you anything. You are the first private I ever met."

Some folks are already planning summer vacation trips—another sign that prosperity is returning.

Jerry—I hear you stayed in a haunted house all last night? What happened?
Harry—About 12 o'clock a ghost came through the wall just as if there was no wall there at all.

Jerry—And what did you do?
Harry—I went out through the other wall the same way.

Robert—They have found the skull of a prehistoric woman 20,000 years old.
Dorothy—How horrid of them to mention her age, poor thing!

A woman's page offers some hints on "helping the young bride select cuts of meat." Yes, but who is going to help the young bridegroom eat them after they're cooked?

Friend—Don't you miss your husband when he is traveling?
Wife—Oh, no. I have a wonderful scheme; I prop a newspaper up in front of his plate at breakfast and I often completely forget that he isn't there.

Keep sweet! Enjoy the good things, look for the beautiful, be happy yourself and talk happiness to others. So shall you always be made welcome, everywhere.

Special Catering License.
Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—Catering establishments would be able to obtain alcoholic beverage licenses for special functions under terms of a bill before the New York legislature today. Introduced by Assemblyman John A. Devany, Jr., a Bronx Democrat, the measure would authorize issuance of licenses to be used for particular functions as banquets and dances. Beverages could be retailed only during the period when the function is in progress.

Farm Aid Approved.
Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP)—New York state's drive to rehabilitate farmers by utilizing federal funds to remove them from unproductive lands and grant loans for relief and farm improvements today had gained its first objective—approval by the upper house of the legislature. The senate last night, by a vote of 53 to 4, passed the Ross rural rehabilitation bill designed to pump millions of federal dollars into the rural areas of the state.

Cow Testing by Mail
A Growing Service

Cow testing by mail is one of the forms of record service which the Farm Bureau is offering Ulster county dairymen. For herds of small or moderate size, mail testing makes a special appeal, according to the Ulster County Farm Bureau. Since the cost of the mail service is based upon the number of cows, the fewer cows a dairyman has, the smaller will be his monthly payment. Before mail testing was begun, few dairymen with the smaller herds were getting records upon their cows because there was no suitable service then available which completely met the needs of these herd owners. With the mail plan now available, the Farm Bureau is accommodating dairymen with record service who never kept records before.

According to this mail testing service which is also known as the Dairy Record Club, each member receives milk sample cans, once a month milk and record sheets upon which to write the milk production and feed of each cow. The sample cans carry back to the Dairy Record Club laboratory, samples of each cow's milk. Dairymen do this weighing and sampling on but one day a month.

When the milk samples and milk and feed records of each cow are received at the laboratory, the samples are tested by licensed persons for their butterfat content and the production and feeding records are computed. The completed report is mailed back to the cooperators.

With these records which the Dairy Record Club provides, dairymen in Ulster county are getting "harder" cows, raising calves from only cows of known production and butterfat test and are feeding their cows according to the milk fat they produce. All of these practices which automatically follow dairy record keeping are particularly important at this time, when dairymen seem to be on the threshold of another upswing in the dairy cycle. Better cows and more efficient feeding practices are necessary if Ulster county dairymen are to reap the full benefits of the higher prices for milk and dairy cows, which are sure to come over the next few years.

Infant Forest Moved 300 Miles To 'Lift Face' Of South Carolina

These "before and after" pictures illustrate what is being done by the government erosion experts to change the "face" of South Carolina. At the left is a 35-foot "washed out" gully. At the right is a picture of the same gully after the sides have been cut down, check-dams built, and pine seedlings planted.

By ASHLEY HALSEY, JR.
Spartanburg, S. C. (AP)—Mother Earth needs to primp up a bit hereabouts—so the federal government is moving a young forest across the state of South Carolina to help lift her face and take out a few wrinkles.
When the operation is completed, some of the south's best farm lands will have been saved from erosion and rejuvenated for productivity.
In the course of the rejuvenation, more than a million pine seedlings have been transplanted from a government nursery at Georgetown, S. C., 300 miles away.
Trees Check Erosion
All told, 2,000,000 young trees have been set out in an effort to utilize the poorer farm lands and check the wearing away of the soil. The project covers 120,000 acres in the South Tyger river area of the upper South Carolina Piedmont section.
In combatting the forces of erosion and crasing their marks, workmen first employed tractors and steam shovels to smooth out the gullies and chasms cut by the uncontrolled flow of water through the red clay hills.
Dams Built
Then 3,100 check dams were built to prevent the freshly deposited soil from washing away. As a further safeguard, 325 miles of terraces were built to protect 5,000 acres sown with solid-rooted crops.
Another 5,000 acres, which had been under cultivation, are being reforested by the sowing of grass.
Before the work was started, Dr. T. S. Bule, regional director of the reclamation project, estimated an average of two tons of eroded debris were swept from each acre in the South Tyger watershed annually.
This project is a unit in the national program the federal government launched against soil erosion in November, 1933. Similar undertakings are under way in several other states.

Tips on Contract

Despite Two Losers
By TOM O'NEIL

Most squeezes will produce only one more trick than could be obtained without a squeeze. This is the case with the simple squeeze, where one defender has to guard high cards in two suits, and with the double squeeze, where each defender has to guard a different suit and both have to guard the same suit.
When one opponent has to guard three suits it is possible at times to make two more tricks than would be possible without a squeeze.
All of which is illustrative of the principles behind play of a hand sent me in two parts by Miss Alice Reardon of West Roxbury, Mass. The first part contained just the hands that opened the bidding and responded, as follows:
DEALER
S-AJ7653 S-42
H-A2 H-KQJ865
D-K8 D-AJ74
C-KJ4 C-A

The bidding went: one spade; three hearts; three spades; four diamonds; four no trump; five no trump; seven no trump.
Miss Reardon asked how to play the hand if the nine of clubs were opened at the left of the dealer.
I suggested playing all the hearts on the theory that the hand might be made if the defender on the dealer's right held the king and queen of spades, the queen of clubs and the queen of diamonds. The only certain tricks are one spade, six hearts, two diamonds and two clubs, a total of eleven.

If the hand were such the end situation after all the hearts had been played might be:

S-42
D-AJ74
WEST
S-109
D-10632
S-KQ
D-K9
D-K8
C-KJ4

A diamond lead from North to the king, followed by the play of the king of clubs, a lead to the ace of diamonds and the play of the jack of diamonds would compel East to shed either the honor or the club queen. In either case South would take the rest of the tricks.

Miss Reardon then sent me the complete hand, as follows:

S-42
D-AJ74
S-109
D-10632
S-KQ
D-K9
SOUTH
S-AJ
D-K8
C-KJ4

This hand can be beaten if East sheds a spade and holds diamonds guarded. But if on the run of hearts East sheds one of his three diamonds, the hand can be made, for West then would be squeezed by the club king into blanking his spade king or shedding a diamond.

At The Theatres

PREVIEWED

Today

Broadway: "Roberta". The hitting music of Jerome Kern mixes blithely with the dancing feet of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers and the outcome is a show of tinsel gaiety, one of the bright, outstanding pictures of the year. The story concerns a dance orchestra of American youngsters stranded in Paris, and the fun they have and the tangles they get into, particularly their leader, is grand entertainment. A lavish fashion show, several dance specialties, Jerome Kern's music, and the voice of Irene Dunne all combine to make this show a hit from the opening scene. Elaborate and sophisticated, the huge cast also features Victor Varconi, Clair Dodd, Helen Westley, and Randolph Scott. Fred Astaire steals the show with an exhibition of flawless dancing, and he also proves himself an engaging and talented actor.

Orpheum: "Great Expectations". Dickens' classic is transcribed to the screen with careful attention to detail, and this internationally famous story of a convict and a youth who unintentionally befriends him, has the atmosphere of yesterday's England, and the characters seem to walk from the pages of the book. Henry Hull, Jane Wyatt and Phillips Holmes head the large cast of players. Good entertainment. "Secrets of Chinatown" is the second feature, a thriller with Lucille Brown and Nick Stewart.

Kingston: "Ruggles of Red Gap". Far and away the best comedy drama of the year, and one of the outstanding motion pictures since the advent of sound. This Harry Lean Wilson classic, although brought to the screen several years ago, is motion picture excellence in acting, direction and dialogue. It has everything a movie should have, and is one of the plays the public should seek their shoes to see if necessary. Laid in the early part of this century, the story concerns a couple of westerners visiting Paris, and the husband, gets in a poker game with a British noble, and wins the Britisher's valet as part of a bet. The valet's name is Ruggles. Going back to the wild and cultureless west, the couple take Ruggles along with them, and introduce him to the people as a British colonel. Ruggles, trained to service, has ideas of his own about equality of men because he has read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, and he decides to strike out in business on his own and succeeds. The greatness of the whole play lies in the genius of Charles Laughton, in his first comedy role as Ruggles. One scene he plays is so poignant and real as he speaks of America's opportunity for all men, that it will make everyone a bit more patriotic, and will give the cheering thought that the United States is too big and fine to ever fail, regardless of how the politicians handle it. Her Gelfing, Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland, Zazu Pitts, Roland Young, Lucien Littlefield and Maude Eburne are also featured. Laughable, realistic, flawless, this motion picture is worthy of every critic's highest praise.

Tomorrow Broadway: Same. Orpheum: "Jealousy" and "Heldorado". The first film on the Orpheum bill teaches the moral that it doesn't pay to be jealous. It tells of a young prize fighter so madly in love with a girl that the moment

Starr Will Talk To Shirt Workers Tonight

Mark Starr of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union will be the speaker at the meeting of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America at their meeting tonight at the Union Hall at 635 Broadway. The local members of the International are invited to this meeting as well as all members of the Amalgamated and their friends. Mr. Starr who is now Educational Director of the International was formerly an instructor at Brookwood Labor College at Katonah, N. Y., and connected with the British Trade Union movement in England. At Brookwood, he discussed with the workers who were students there, the economic implications of their work problems. He now heads up an educational department which is considered by both the unions of the country and by the educational authorities to be among the most interesting projects now going on. "We are glad to welcome an official from another union to our meeting," said James Geary president of local 166 of the Amalgamated. He will speak on "How we can build a Trade Union Movement."

Plant Relief Gardens Here First of May

The garden project that proved so successful here last year has again been approved for this year, and families on the relief rolls who desire to raise a garden this summer should register as soon as possible at the local ERB office at Broadway. A number have already registered. The garden project this year will again be in charge of Roy Jacob, and the municipal gardens will be located on ground owned by the Kingston Lumber Company on the Esopus lowlands, where they were located last summer. At the local ERB it was stated today that the seeds and fertilizer have been ordered, and it was planned to commence planting the gardens the first of May.

What's Doing in the N.Y. Legislature Today

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—What the New York legislature is doing today:
Both houses convene at 11 a. m. Assembly considers five bills designed to create new county government in Nassau and $35,000,000 bond issue for unemployment relief. The latter has already passed the senate.

Bank Clerk Is Held By New Orleans Police

New Orleans, April 9 (AP).—Steve Macaluso, 32-year-old bank employee, was held for investigation today while police checked his weird story of riding around New Orleans for two days with the body of a pretty young woman stuffed in the luggage compartment of his automobile.

The half-dazed Macaluso, who said he committed suicide while riding with him, refused to be shaken through long hours of questioning by District Attorney Eugene Stanley.

The man said his companion, Mrs. Grace Gonzalez, 21-year-old divorcee, shot herself Saturday afternoon and that, fearing a scandal, he put the body in the rear compartment.

His ceaseless, panic-inspired riding ended yesterday afternoon when accompanied by the woman's father, John P. Wolfe, unemployed lumberman, and her sister, Mrs. Irene Mallino, 23, department store worker, whom he picked up a short time before, he went to the district attorney's office.

Macaluso calmly told the district attorney and his assistants he had the body of a woman in his car outside. They found the Gonzalez woman had been shot through the left breast.

Macaluso told the district attorney he had thrown the gun away as he was riding near the city.

Wolfe said his daughter had been ill recently and had been depressed and that two years ago she had attempted to take her life by drinking poison.

Macaluso said he had been riding around New Orleans for two days with the body of a pretty young woman stuffed in the luggage compartment of his automobile.

Adolph Ochs Famous Publisher Is Dead

and confidence were manifested in a problem that other experienced publishers declined to tackle. An idea of the financial weakness of the concern at the time may be gained from a statement by Mr. Ochs some years later when he said: "The value placed on the shares shortly after I assumed management was indicated by the sale of some of them for ten cents on the dollar."

In three years after its organization the company was placed on a paying basis. Since then, with Mr. Ochs as the dominating figure, the New York Times has risen from the bottom to the top in the volume of business among New York daily newspapers.

Important in Associated Press
In the newspaper field, outside of his own personal enterprises, Mr. Ochs took a greater interest in the affairs of The Associated Press than any other activity. In 1890 he organized The Southern Associated Press and was one of the incorporators of The Associated Press when it was chartered under the laws of the State of New York after its removal from Illinois in 1900.

He served as the first treasurer under that incorporation. A member of the Board of Directors, he retired in favor of the late Whitelaw Reid and in turn succeeded Mr. Reid when the latter in 1905 went to the Court of St. James as Ambassador to the United States.

Since then Mr. Ochs had continued as a member of the board and of the executive committee, taking an active part in the business of the association and giving his counsel and advice for the benefit and welfare of the member newspapers.

Adolph Simon Ochs was born at Cincinnati, Ohio, March 12, 1858, the son of Julius and Bertha Levy Ochs. His father came to the United States in 1844. He enlisted for the Mexican War and was a federal officer in the Civil War, being honorably discharged as captain in the 68th Ohio Volunteer Infantry. With his family he moved in 1865 to Knoxville, Tenn., where he entered business.

There, the son, Adolph, received a common school education and obtained his first newspaper job as a carrier boy when the Knoxville Daily Chronicle was started. In 1875 he became a printer's "devil" in the Chronicle office at $2 a week.

After learning his trade as a printer, Mr. Ochs went to the job printing department of the Louisville Courier-Journal, but in less than a year transferred to the composing room of the Knoxville Daily Tribune. In 1877 he was connected with a new journalistic venture in Chattanooga, the Daily Despatch, for which he was general utility man during its brief career, filling every position from printer's "devil" to editor in chief. The next year he got his real start toward success with the publication of the Chattanooga city directory.

On February 28, 1883, Mr. Ochs married Miss Iphigene Miriam Ochs, daughter of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Isaac M. Wise of Cincinnati. They had one daughter, Iphigene, who in 1917 became the wife of Arthur Hays Sulzberger, vice president of the New York Times Company.

Neighbors Search for FATHER IN CHILD BEATING

Washington, April 9 (AP).—Angered neighbors joined today in a hunt for Robert Green, unemployed bricklayer of Ardmore, Md., after officers were informed that he had beaten his small daughter into unconsciousness because she could not spell "patty."

The child, Norma Jean Green, who will be three years old tomorrow, is in a hospital here, her body covered with welts and bruises and one arm in a sling.

Officers said the 27-year-old father once served a term in Lorton Reformatory.

Norma Jean's young mother, who ran to the home of a neighbor yesterday to summon help, said her husband had whipped the child with a heavy belt Sunday night "until she seemed to stop breathing." She said the little girl was beaten again yesterday and that she was prevented from going for a physician until her husband left the house late in the day.

Norma Jean can spell "patty" perfectly well, her mother told visitors at the hospital, but she said the father frightens her so that she can not remember.

"She can spell 'dog' and 'cat' and recites her nursery rhymes well," the mother confided.

Searchers reported that Green apparently returned home last night but left immediately when he found his family missing.

At the hospital the child was comforted with a warm doll and promised a magnificent new one, with a blanket and lots of dresses for it, on her birthday.

SISTERHOOD TO TEMPLE
EMANUEL MEETS WEDNESDAY
A regular meeting of the Sisterhood to Temple Emanuel will be held in the social hall at the temple Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. After the meeting there will be a play, "The Scandal," in which the following members will take part: Mrs. B. Levy, Mrs. J. Schleissner, Mrs. S. Ribet, Mrs. J. Silverman and Mrs. S. Mann. As this play promises to be very entertaining, a large attendance of members is looked for at the meeting.

Entertainment in May
An entertainment will be given for the Alice M. Scarsfield Club at Masonic Hall on Wall street on Thursday, May 2. A nominal admission will be charged and during the evening refreshments and candy will be sold.

Populists Women To Meet
Circle No. 1 of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. William Van Houten, 12 Van Buren street, on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The business will be Mrs. Van Houten and Mrs. Lulu Dewey.

Mary Astor Is Ready To Divorce Dr. Thorpe

Los Angeles, April 9 (AP).—Another of Hollywood's "perfect marital understandings" involving pliant Mary Astor and Dr. Franklyn Thorpe, was in the divorce courts today.

Dr. Thorpe filed suit yesterday charging that Miss Astor was over-critical and made embarrassing comparisons between their respective earning capacities.

"There was no harmony or happiness in the marriage relation and the ends and objects of the marriage relation had been thereby thwarted and defeated," said his petition alleging incompatibility and mental cruelty.

Through her studio Miss Astor blamed varying professional interests for the end of her four-year marriage. The studio statement said they "are in two different spheres of activity and are leading two different lives, and they became convinced that both would be happier living apart."

In an agreement reached out of court, a property settlement was effected. Dr. Thorpe will assume custody of their two-year-old daughter, Marilyn. Miss Astor, however, is privileged to visit the child at will and care for her six months of the year if she chooses.

The actress and the young Hollywood doctor eloped to Yuma, Ariz., in June, 1931, and separated last March 25.

Miss Astor, born Lucille Vasconcellos Langhorne, in Quincy, Ill., May 3, 1906, lost her first husband, Kenneth Hawks, film director, in an air collision between two planes over the Pacific Ocean near Santa Monica, in 1930.

Jail Term Expired, Is Taken to Albany

Napoleon Robinson, a negro, who today completed the serving of a year's sentence in the county jail on Wall street, was met at the jail door by two detectives from Albany and taken there later in the morning to answer to a charge of grand larceny in the theft of a Buick automobile.

Robinson is the negro who a year ago caused considerable excitement downtown as he drove a car madly through the streets, turning corners on two wheels and was chased by Officer Bowers who followed him to Kingston Point in another car. The negro, a stranger to Kingston, did not know that the road to the Point was a dead end road, and as he drove down it the officer followed to the intersection of North street and Delaware avenue and then had the car he was in placed sideways in Delaware avenue blocking the negro from passing in his car when he turned around.

The car the negro was driving was said to be a stolen Buick which the negro had picked up in Albany. When he was placed under arrest by Officer Bowers a revolver was found in the car and the negro was held on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon for which crime he was sent to jail for a year.

Goldman's Store Was Burglarized

Hastebrook Avenue Store Entered During Night and Money and Merchandise Stolen—Johnston's Filling Station on Washington Avenue Also Entered.

Goldman's store at 177 Hastebrook avenue was burglarized some time during the night. Entrance to the store was gained by back-sawing a staple on the front door. The thief or thieves then helped themselves to from $10 to $12 in small change, took a number of razor blades and about $40 worth of cigarettes and several cartons of tobacco. The burglary was reported to the police department when it was discovered this morning.

The police department was also notified that during the night entry had been made at the Johnston's filling station at 416 Washington avenue. Just what was stolen there will not be known until a checkup is completed.

Milk Bill Advanced By the State Senate

Albany, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—The Dunn-Kelly bill proposing a $400,000 fund for continuing New York state's milk advertising program another year was advanced in the senate last night toward a final vote this week.

The vote on advancement was 23 to nine. The bill has passed the assembly.

The Hendel bill to establish a Queens-Midtown tunnel authority of three members passed the senate last night and was sent to the assembly.

The Porter bill to authorize the Whiteface Mountain highway commission to issue up to $1,000,000 in bonds passed the senate and went to governor Lehman for his signature or veto.

The Allen bill to provide an additional $25,000 appropriation for the commission studying port facilities in Dutchess, Putnam and Orange counties also is before the governor, having passed the senate last night.

The assembly passed and sent to the senate the Kilgrew bill to authorize New York city to build an elevated public highway from Canal street to Battery along the Hudson river waterfront.

Bids for Building of East Chester By-pass To Be Opened April 16

The bids for the construction of the East Chester street by-pass to Route 3-W will be opened as planned on April 16 in Albany, and the new alignment of the road as it leaves the city limits will be built as a field change. That was the information furnished by Commissioner Bernard Roach at the meeting of the Board of Public Works on Monday evening at the city hall.

Commissioner Roach said that a party of engineers from the state highway department would be in Kingston at 8 o'clock this morning to go over the new alignment.

The road, as originally planned, was to have gone through lands owned by the state conservation commission for a distance of about 600 feet, but the conservation commission refused to release to the state highway department a right of way through the lands owned by the commission.

This necessitated a change in the alignment and the proposed road now swings around the state conservation land, on lands owned by the New York Central Railroad. The railroad authorities have assured Mayor C. J. Heiselman and the state highway department that it would gladly cooperate in having the road constructed.

The engineer's estimate for the East Chester street by-pass was $168,000. This estimate was for the road if the alignment had not been changed.

The building of the new road will afford considerable work for idle men for the contractor who is awarded the contract to build the road must obtain his labor from the office of the National Re-employment Service in the city hall.

Lt. Barringer Failed To Set New Record

An official check-up on the sailplane flight recently made by L. B. Barringer, showed that the attempt to break the record held by Richard duPont, 158 miles, had failed. The information was received in a letter written by Lieutenant Barringer to District Attorney C. B. Murray and the latter was asked to cooperate in making arrangements for another attempt at the record.

According to the letter Barringer covered a little over 150 miles in his flight from Mt. Mongola to Pikeville, Pa.

HAMILTON WOULD HAUNT EXECUTIONERS, HE BOASTS

Huntville, Tex., April 9 (AP).—Raymond Hamilton, who taunted the law in life, hoped today he would be able to haunt its enforcers in death.

It was the strongest threat the 22-year old Texas desperado could muster after he had been sentenced to die in the electric chair, May 10, for the slaying of Major Crowsen, a prison farm guard. Once before he had been condemned to die in the same chair, but escaped from death row.

"If it is true that there is such a thing as haunts after death, I'm coming back and kick the whole bunch of you out of bed," declared Hamilton with a sneer after Judge S. W. Dean had passed the sentence at Dallas yesterday.

Brought back to the death row of the prison here, Hamilton was placed in cell No. 7, the same one from which he escaped nine months ago to engage in crimes which labelled him as one of the nation's most desperate criminals.

He was captured last week without having a chance to use the two pistols in his pockets.

Prison officials said he would not be able to escape again. His cell door has three locks and guards are on 24-hour duty before the cage.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By CLAUDE E. JACOBSON

New York, April 9 (AP).—The stock market got back on its feet today, after yesterday's slight stumble, and once more began its slow but steady advance.

While there was no rush for the majority of equities, a cheerful atmosphere seemed to prevail in the boardrooms and the news was without definite color. Grains were narrowly irregular. Cotton was in fair demand. Bonds a little more than held their own. Foreign exchanges were quiet and a bit mixed.

While the activity was restricted in share transactions, one block of 35,000 shares of General Gas & Electric "A" came out at 4 1/4 off 1/4. This issue subsequently regained the 1/4 on smaller dealings.

The metals were given a whirl with U. S. Smelting getting up some 3 points, while American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and Kennecott firmed fractionally to around a point. Moderate improvement was registered by Northern Pacific, N. Y. Central, Seaboard Oil, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Ohio Oil, Western Union, American Telephone, Loew's, Union Carbide, Chrysler, General Motors, Continental Can, Westinghouse and Johns-Manville. Issues about unchanged included U. S. Steel, American Can, Consolidated Gas, Santa Fe and American Tobacco "B".

Further help for the railroads was seen in the decision of the Interstate Commerce commission authorizing the carriers to put the new emergency freight rate increases into effect on five-days' notice instead of the usual statutory 30 days.

Warns Striking Relief Workers

Jamestown, N. Y., April 9 (AP).—Striking relief workers, warned by the mayor against exasperating taxpayers, today considered returning to their jobs.

The mayor, youthful and energetic Leon F. Roberts, told the 350 strikers last night at a mass meeting that taxpayers and other citizens "may form an organization and protest the heavy relief load they have been forced to shoulder."

He said he did not blame some of the workers "for getting sour and sick of the world at times," but the city is borrowing money to pay for relief and "I am not so sure we can borrow more."

Local Death Record

The funeral of John F. Rowland, who died on Monday, will be held from the late home, 112 Spring street, on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will be in Montrose cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Henrietta Lifer was held from the parlors of Jensen & Deegan Monday afternoon at 2:30 and was in charge of the Rev. C. E. Brown, pastor of the Wurst Street Baptist Church. The services were very largely attended by her many relatives and friends, and there was a profusion of beautiful floral tributes, testifying to the high esteem in which she was held in this community. The interment was in the family plot in Port Ewen cemetery, where the committal services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Brown.

The funeral of Mrs. John P. Reedy was held from her late home, 54 Hoffman street, Monday morning and at St. Joseph's Church at 9:30 o'clock where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of her soul by the Rev. Louis M. Cusack, pastor. The choir was in charge of Mrs. Frank Rafferty, organist. The funeral cortege was a long one and floral offerings were profuse and beautiful attesting to the esteem in which Mrs. Reedy was held. Interment was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where Father Cusack pronounced final absolution. The bearers were Louis Roach, Joseph Roach, Paul Ummerle, Louis Carpenter, William Carpenter and William Meenan.

Phoenicia, April 9.—Funeral services for Mrs. Cyrus Donovan were held Sunday at 1 o'clock at the Bookhout Funeral Home, Oneonta. Dr. G. H. Phillips was in charge. Burial was at the Shandaken Rural Cemetery. Mrs. Donovan, who had been a resident of West Danversport for four years, died at 1 West Court street, Oneonta, where she had spent the last four months with two of her daughters. She had been ill about a year, suffering from a complication of ailments and had been in bed for two months. Most of her early life was spent in Phoenicia, where she lived for 17 years, and in Pine Hill, where she resided 20 years. She was 67 years old, having been born March 20, 1868. Her maiden name was Mary Ella Law and her parents were Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Donovan, to whom she was married December 5, 1886, survives. Other survivors of her family are a son, Charles Donovan, New York; four daughters, Mrs. Philip Minter, Oneonta; Mrs. Harry Krom, Chichester; Mrs. Jesse Collins, Oneonta, and Miss Minnie Donovan, Oneonta. There are also eight grandchildren, two great grandchildren, and a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ray Donovan of Phoenicia. Roy Donovan, a state trooper, was killed at Glens Falls 11 years ago in the line of duty.

HAUPTMANN ASKS REHEARING ON TAX

Washington, April 9 (AP).—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted slayer of the Lindbergh baby, petitioned the board of tax appeals today for a determination of government income tax claims, penalties and interest totaling $9,678.

The petition declared the bureau of internal revenue erred in computing income from partnership dealings with Isidor Fisch, from whom Hauptmann testified, he received the Lindbergh ransom money found in his possession.

SALE OF BEDS A SUCCESS AT ROSE AND GORMAN STORE

The Rose and Gorman sale of Schilling beds which started today, was said by the management to be one of the most successful sales of its kind ever offered at the big store. This unusual money saving sale of beds was made possible because the stock of beds was purchased from the receivers at a special price. All of the beds carry the Schilling guarantee of excellence, and all the beds are especially priced for the duration of the sale.

Legionnaires Play Return Game With Renaissance Tonight, at 9

The Kingston Legionnaires, champions of the New York State Basketball League, and conquerors of some high calibre American League clubs, together with the famous Original Celtics, are scheduled to wind up their season at the Municipal Auditorium tonight against none other than those celebrated stars of the basketball realm, the Renaissance.

Tonight's duel will be the second between Frank Morgenweck's local cagers and the ebony aces of the court, who won on their last trip to Kingston and hope to repeat. The Legionnaires are banking for a decision over the famous colored totters, not alone to even the standing, but to appropriately ring down the curtain on their home season.

Captain Carlie Husta, who yesterday celebrated his birthday, says, "We surely must play harder than ever tonight. 'Pop' Morgenweck wants this game and so do I. Morgie has been trying to give the fans the best and only the best. He has done a good job so far. We must do our part tonight and a little more to make him feel good. And as for the fans, I know they would like to see Kingston come through. We'll do our best to please them."

Spain to Be Here
So anxious is Morgenweck that he has procured Moe Spahn, that shooting star of the Celtics, to play with Kingston. "We want Moe in case of an emergency," said "Pop." "Under such a strain some of our best men might need a rest, and what we need is the situation if Husta or Shimek, or in fact any of our men, Kurtyka, Kellett, or Hamilton had to give up for a spell on the bench. I want this game and can't afford to let any obstacles stand in the way."

Corky Stanton, the Schenectady youngster Morgie signed after the State League finished, and who has been playing good ball, may not be available at all on account of bolts on his arms.
Spahn should be a big help to the Legionnaires and undoubtedly he will see some action tonight even if he is not called into play by strain on the rest of the men. The fans liked Spahn when he performed here with the Celtics and he likely will get a big hand when he takes the floor dressed in the maroon and grey of the Legion.

Chance for Kellett
Al Kellett, Kingston's new center and long range shooting artist, also will have all eyes on him tonight. He gave a stellar exhibition against the Celtics last week, doing the bulk of the scoring for Kingston besides doing a good job at the pivot post.
In the Renaissance lineup will be the usual group of colored stars: Pappy Ricks, Tarzan Cooper, Wee Willie Smith, Bill Yancey, Casey Holt and Eyre Satch.

Starting time of the game is 9 o'clock. The preliminary between the Kendalls and Spinnys of Port Ewen will get under way at 8.
Doors of the Auditorium will open at 7 o'clock.

Yale Gridders on "Spot" for Next Fall

New Haven, Conn., April 9 (AP).—Yale's football victory over Princeton last fall, which ranked as the major upset of the 1934 gridiron campaign, had its boomerang today with Head Coach Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond as the chief "boomer."

With the opening drill of a five-week program of spring practice hardly out of the way, Pond painted a very dreary portrait of his "woos."
"You wouldn't think that scoring a victory over a hitherto undefeated Princeton football team would have a bad effect on the coach and members of the winning team, would you?" questioned Pond.

"Well, it didn't until I began to get around since that eventful day, and after thinking things over, I know that's the day our 1935 troubles started."
"Here's what I mean. Last year we were faced with a suicide schedule and were not expected to win a game. You know what happened. We beat Pennsylvania, Brown, Dartmouth, Princeton and Harvard. We won some of those games because our opponents didn't expect much from us."

"But, this year, it's going to be different. We're going to be on the spot and it's going to be up to us to come through on a schedule which calls for games with New Hampshire, Penn. Navy, Army, Dartmouth, Brown, Harvard and Princeton."
"In addition to this, we lost six regulars from the eleven and the material to replace these boys simply isn't around."

STAG BROTHERS CLASH NEXT FALL AS COACHES

Bethlehem, Pa. (AP).—The entry of the third member of the family of Amos Alonzo Stagg into the college football coaching field will bring about a unique situation when Susquehanna University and Moravian College clash on the gridiron here next October 26.

A. A. Stagg, Jr., eldest son of the man for 49 years athletic chief at the University of Chicago, has been named head coach at Susquehanna. Next fall he will bring his team to Bethlehem to face a Moravian eleven turned out by his younger brother, Paul.

Further coincidental in the Stagg family situation are: In each case the younger Stagg, succeeded from State coach, William H. Miller at Susquehanna and Glenn Killinger at Moravian—and both these men were pupils of State of Haze Hazzard, who in turn was one of the older Stagg's star football pupils at Chicago many years ago.

Spahs, Visitations to Decide Series April 11 In Philadelphia Hall

The playoff series between Brooklyn Visitations and Philadelphia He-brews for the championship of the second half of the American Basketball League is a tie between both clubs, after two games were played last week. On Friday at the 71st Regiment Armory, New York, Philadelphia won by a score of 24-15, while at Philadelphia on Saturday Brooklyn reversed this decision by triumphing to the tune of 39-30.

Following the completion of the second game at Philadelphia, a coin was tossed to decide the locale of the third and final game. This toss was won by Philadelphia and the final game will be staged at the Broadwood Hotel on Thursday, April 11.

Immediately following this tie-playoff, will be started the playoff series between the New York Jewels, winners of the first half championship and either Philadelphia or Brooklyn, whichever of these last two named teams wins the second half championship. The first contest will be played at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, on Friday, April 12. The second game, regardless of the winner, will be played at Philadelphia on Saturday, April 13. This contest has been agreed upon by the Brooklyn Visitations if they are the eventual winners. The third game will be played at Arcadia Hall, Brooklyn, on Sunday, April 14, and the remaining two games, if necessary, will be determined later as to place and date.

Nashville, Tenn. — When Bill Terry finds a place for his firstbase understudy, Joe Malay, the New York Giants will be down to the 22-man player limit. Malay probably will wind up either with Toronto or Nashville. Terry released two other rookies, Joe Martin and Al Cuccinello, to Nashville yesterday.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The New York Yankees evidently were a trifle premature in bemoaning Charlie Ruffing's alleged lack of condition. The big redhead, who arrived ten days late in camp, shut out the Chicago Cubs yesterday without a hit in the six innings he worked. He walked four men but none got as far as second.

Jacksonville, Tenn.—The Brooklyn Dodgers may have trouble getting together enough men for a ball game with Toronto today. Van Mungo, Babe Phelps, Danny Taylor, Ray Beuge, Watson Clark, Tom Zachary, Frank Lamanske and Johnny Babele are on their way north. They will rejoin the rest of the team at Washington tomorrow.

Top In Boat Speed? Wood Won't Guess

Miami Beach, Fla. (AP).—Gar Wood, "gray-haired 'Fox' of powerboat racing, is convinced his Miss America X is the world's fastest boat in any kind of water—as his records would indicate—but even he doesn't know just how fast she is, and probably never will!

Here to send his sea-going projectile after the world salt water record, Wood discoursed on the subject of "ultimates" for powerboat speeds.

"No one really knows how fast a boat will go. Certainly I don't, and no naval architect, engineer or scientist has ever proved to me that there is a limit. I can say 200 miles an hour, but that is a guess. Your guess is as good. No one can prove anything about it because very few people know anything about it."

Very Few Hit 100 M. P. H.

"The opportunities for experiment are not there. A speed boat is an expensive proposition and frequently isn't much fun. You can count on the fingers of one hand all the boats that ever went 100 miles an hour." Miss America X has a fresh-water record of 124.86 miles an hour, made on the St. Clair river at Detroit in 1932, and without "pressing." When that record was made the boat had a horsepower of only 6,400, compared with the 7,200 horsepower of the four Packard motors in the present power plant.

GAR WOOD

"It was only a few years ago, you know, when 50 miles an hour was considered the all-time tops for motorboats, and 100 miles an hour was just a crazy dream," Wood reminds.

Unless Someone Beats Him
But in the words "the opportunities for experiment are not there," lies the reason Wood doesn't know the full possibilities of his fleet craft. He has, after all, only one Miss America X, and it is, as he says, an expensive proposition.

It isn't likely that he'll ever drive this craft to the limit of its terrific power—where back-breaking pounding on the deck and slides and bottom of the hull would force him to ease off from sheer exhaustion.

Unless—unless someone else builds a boat that tops Miss America X's record. Then Wood would probably "give her all she has." He set his 124.86 mark a few days after defeating Kaye Don, English sportsman, in the Harnsworth trophy race of 1932, at Detroit.

Sarazen Wins Augusta National Credits Farm Life For Success

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

Augusta, Ga., April 9 (AP).—Gene Sarazen has found a new secret for golfing success, and for proof he can point today to his sensational triumph in the Augusta National Golf Club's second annual invitation tournament.

Gene attributes the "recovery of winning form after a lapse of nearly two years to the fact he has exchanged the social demands of city life and world traveling for the tranquility of a farm in East Brookfield, Conn.

He has substituted the habit of rising early for the temptations of metropolitan night life.

Foresees Big Season
He says he never felt in better condition, and he's confident his victory means the launching of another big season.

"I never hit the ball better in my life," said Sarazen. "I had some good luck, maybe more than my share, on that double eagle Sunday afternoon, but I feel more confident of my shots than at any time since

Property Owners Are Liable for Damages Sustained by Employees

New York, April 8.—Property owners employing contractors to repair, remodel or otherwise modernize income-producing buildings or grounds were advised today by Industrial Commissioner Elmer F. Andrews to make sure that the contractors are covered by Workmen's Compensation Insurance. Otherwise, he pointed out, the property owner may be liable in the event of an accident to a worker employed on the job.

Commissioner Andrews issued the warning in response to a letter from Walter S. Dayton, chairman of the Better Housing Committee for Bay-side, Douglaston and Little Neck, L. I., commending the work of the Division of Inspection of the State Department of Labor in checking up on Workmen's Compensation coverage for contractors engaged in work on Long Island.

Many of the homes now being modernized with the assistance of the Federal Housing Administration are being altered to accommodate more than one family, in order to assist the owners financially and thereby to help them keep their property. Employees engaged in such work, as well as those on larger operations, come under the Workmen's Compensation Law. In event of an accident to an employee the contractor is liable. If he is unable to pay the costs of medical care and compensation, the liability is passed on to the property owner engaging the contractor. The Division of Inspection has found that considerable work was being performed by skilled workers and mechanics who claim to be independent contractors or co-partners and therefore not covered by the Workmen's Compensation Law. Inspectors are serving notice on all construction jobs where definite proof either of Workmen's Compensation coverage or exemption therefrom is lacking.

Commissioner Andrews pointed out that on jobs where the Workmen's Compensation Law may not apply to the owner, either the contractor or the property owner is liable for damages sustained by workers on such jobs. As a measure of protection, therefore, Workmen's Compensation coverage is advisable, even when it is not obligatory.

CAPITAL NEWS

HOLLISTER STURGES, JR.

Albany, April 9 (Special).—One well might have judged the past evening to have been a Fourth of July or some other celebration that involves much bombing and noises resembling backfire, for the moment the legislators met to start off on another week of law-making they lit into the speech given on Sunday over the radio by Governor Herbert H. Lehman. In the Assembly the veteran of 20 years standing, Louis A. Cuvillier, offered up a resolution that might have been a black eye to the state's chief executive, had not the speaker ruled it out for technical reasons, as only privilege resolutions are acceptable at this date, and such was not the case. But the resolution was read into the record, and it had its effect. A biting sting must have been felt by Mr. Lehman, for the reaction of the aged Cuvillier, who heads the Tammany Hall delegates to the state capitol, and his close associates who caused the breach that sent the measure to defeat. In his resolution Mr. Cuvillier charged that the governor had "usurped his authority" in rapping the legislature for voting against the reapportionment bill and that he had further exceeded his constitutionally by using the radio for aiding his cause. Mr. Cuvillier made no bones about the matter of his feeling, and he must have had many sympathizers because after he had given one of his best speeches of the year and resumed his seat there broke a wave of approving applause for the old gentleman.

Nor was he fighting single-handed. Horace Stone, of the Republican faith, gave an account of his impressions of the gubernatorial appeal. He, too, branded it as a "usurper of legislative power," and tacked on to his remarks that Mr. Lehman had plenty of precedent to follow, for the radio had been the final resort for Alfred E. Smith and Franklin D. Roosevelt on more than one occasion. He emphatically asserted that in this instance the governor belonged on the radio as much as the assemblymen belonged in the executive chamber telling the state's leader what to do. Not satisfied with attacking the legislators of this state as the only ones who followed a leader, he set about to brand the members of Congress as being "spineless rubber stamps" and that they were merely a "bunch of sheep."

And over in the Senate chamber Pliny F. Williamson, who represents wealthy Westchester county, charged that either the governor had not had time to study the reapportionment bill or that he had been ill-advised, because in his opinion the bill was extremely faulty. It was Mr. Williamson who led the offensive attack on the measure when it was before the Senate two weeks ago and was passed by a Democratic majority.

A joint statement was issued by the two Republican leaders in the morning yesterday. Senator George R. Fearon and Assemblyman Irving M. Ives declared that the governor had evaded the main issue in his speech altogether, and that the CWA census-takers, upon whose figures the population has been based for reapportionment planning, are wholly inaccurate.

Because Mr. Lehman declares himself non-political in this affair the Republicans assail Postmaster General James A. Farley as being entirely political. Charges to this effect are included in the Republican reaction as expressed by the leaders.

The writer of this column talked with James E. Stephens, New York insurance broker and one of the two negro assemblymen. This person led the opposition when the reapportionment bill had its initial test in the Assembly. Last night he stated most emphatically that ever that he would fight against the bill. He indicated that certain Republicans would have pressure brought on them because their districts will benefit locally in state representation, and he contended that if the bill passed there would be double the number of Democrats shifting over and opposing the bill, although they had voted for it originally.

Nation's Focus

John T. McCall, New York Democrat, succeeded in getting his anti-bill through the Senate by a count of 35 to 10. He brought the situation close to victory, for he made several references to the anti-camp at Highland, which is in Senator Arthur H. Wicks' district. Mr. Wicks was one of those who favored the bill, making it a misdemeanor to sell property for such a purpose, and outlaws the practice generally, so that it becomes illegal for two or more persons of the opposite sex to disrobe publicly.

Senator William T. Byrne went at great length to be a proponent of the measure. During his speech he accidentally mispronounced one word, which brought a laugh from a few Republican senators. Not realizing the error he had made, Mr. Byrne construed the laughter to be aimed at the subject with which he was dealing, as it was one that had to be treated lightly. He was immediately fired, and reprimanded those who had chuckled.

Mr. McCall stated that he believed shorts, worn by those who come to Dutchess county in the summer time from New York, are bad enough, but when nudists come out of their camps and have to be chased back in by state troopers it is altogether going too far. The measure now goes to the Assembly for concurrence. There is a good deal of uncertainty as to its fate there. For many weeks the bill was considered "killed," and when it was reported out of committee it caused Albany eyebrows to up.

Pork Chops vs. the Hoof

Quite a stir, humorous in nature, was caused when Ogden J. Ross opened discussion on his rural rehabilitation bill to set up machinery in the state so that it will be in a position to accept federal grants of money for this purpose, for which he declared there is a sum "earmarked" for about half a billion for the several states. Senator Earle S. Warner made the fatal mistake of mentioning the price of potatoes, as it immediately brought a long tabulated list of foodstuff prices during the past three years by William T. Byrne, who speaks on any and nearly every subject. Frederic H. Bonetecou, Poughkeepsie farmer, asked for the price of hogs. When the answer came he declared that he meant in the market and not for pigs running around the yard. At this point Benjamin A. Feinberg, of Plattsburg, rose to help straighten things out. Before he could speak George Fearon had nailed him. "What do you know about pork chops?" he challenged. The upstate senator smiled and said: "How many pork chops can a man buy who is working 30 hours a week at 40 cents an hour?" The measure that would allow persons not on relief and yet unable to secure loans from a bank as they are regarded economically as a poor risk, will give these persons, estimated to be approximately 5,000 throughout the state, a loan of some $700 each, to be gotten from the Temporary Emergency Relief Administration which gets its funds in this instance from the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

1936 Busy Year

It is seldom that George Fearon ever misses a chance to strike at a political opponent when such a person makes himself vulnerable. It is most often done in good fun, and this was the case Monday night. Jeremiah Twomey, amiable and jolly chairman of the Senate finance committee, was asking for passage of his bill to advertise the state of New York in attracting outsiders to its resorts, and calling for a $100,000 appropriation to carry this scheme out. The Republicans jumped on him because they had been refused a similar bill last year. Mr. Twomey explained that if the Democrats made a mistake one year they made up for it next. Whipped out Fearon, quick as a flash, "You'll have a busy time next year, then."

BURBANK AND GRIFFIN PROPERTIES SOLD

George H. Foster of Hunter has purchased the Burbank property located corner of Down street and Manor avenue. Mr. Foster will take possession of his new home in the near future, moving his family here from Hunter.

Marion M. Burbank has purchased the Griffin property located at No. 254 Lucas avenue, a modern six room house, barn and about ten acres of land. Thomas H. Griffin, a retired policeman of New York city, secured this home and occupied it for a number of years. The Burbanks are making extensive alterations and when completed will make it a very modern place.

These sales were negotiated by Frank S. Hyatt, real estate broker, 277 Fair street.

To Attend Boy Scout Conference

Many well known names are listed among those who have signified their intention to attend the Regional Conference, Boy Scouts of America, to be held at the Governor Clinton Hotel Friday and Saturday, April 12 and 13.

Among letters received at Scout headquarters in Kingston, written by presidents of councils in the region, which embraces the states of New York and New Jersey, the following names were noted:

Amory Houghton, regional president, who is president of the Cornwall Glass Works and a son of former Ambassador Houghton, who represented this country at the Court of St. James.

United States Senator Warren W. Barbour of New Jersey.
M. Herbert Eisenhardt of the Bosch & Lomb Optical Co., Rochester.

Carl Stedman Brown, New York banker.
F. Dean McClusky, head of the Scarborough School for Boys.

10 Section Workers Killed in Collision

Sacramento, Calif., April 9 (AP).—Ten railway section hands, working late to repair damage caused by record-breaking rains, were killed last night in a railroad accident near Roseville, Calif.

The accident, which occurred when the workers' light railway motor car crashed head-on into a Southern Pacific gravel train, was the worst of several which have accompanied heavy rain storms over the state in the past three days. Nine other persons have lost their lives through drowning, and untold property damage has been caused by high waters.

The victims of the accident were killed instantly and their bodies flung into a 60-foot ravine by the side of the tracks. An eleventh worker was possibly fatally injured, while three others escaped with minor hurts.

Threats of more serious flood hazards were believed averted today with the passing of the peak of the storm and the prospective return of clearing weather.

Homes, farms, crops, store, highways and railroads all suffered from the effects of the storm in many sections of California, notably in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys.
